HOUSE WAYS AND MEANS COMMITTEE STANDS PAT AGAINST RECOMMENDING ANY SORT OF TAX TO LEGISLATURE

Chairman Woner, Defiant, Says the Committee Will Refuse to Act Until Necessity Is Indicated—Will Not Take the Initiative

EVERYTHING NOW IS AT A STANDSTILL

Harrisburg, April 9.—The new taxation bill was still hanging in suspense today with neither the Governor or the Assembly willing to assume the responsibility of fixing the amount or the means of raising said amount.

Chairman Woner of the House ways and means committee, which has under consideration all tax measures introduced this session, said today that his committee would not report out any of these bills until the Governor or the Legislature indicated the necessity of new taxation. Woner said the ways and means committee would not take the initiative in the matter of new taxation.

U. S. GOVERNMENT TAXATION AND THE ADMINISTRATION CODE UP THIS WEEK MAY TELL MEXICO WHAT IS WRONG

Washington, April 9.—The United States government soon again may make plain to the Obregon government of Mexico the terms upon which recognition will be based.

SUGAR AND LEAGUE FIRST PROBLEMS UP TO MR. HARDING

Washington, April 27.—Back in the White House after a five-week vacation President Harding was at his task early this morning confronted by numerous problems that have piled up during his absence from Washington.

Indications are that the sugar price problem will be the first to have his attention. Progressives in Congress are ready to carry to Mr. Harding the den and that the alleged market for opium should be prosecuted to the full extent of the law and to inform him that his staff investigation is vastly insufficient.

GUESTS REFUSED TO GO HOME SO HE GAVE THEM LEAD

are searching for Antonio Pascara of Kendall Station, Moon township, who is alleged to have shot and killed Carmine Boecali when he and two other men declined to go to their homes and permit Pascara to go to bed.

A brother of the slain man stated an argument arose over whether the guests should go home, resulting in Pascara shooting Boecali. Pascara and the guests had been drinking.

BROAD GAUGED BUSINESS MEN OF THE CITY PUT SHOULDER TO THE WHEEL AND DOLLARS AT DISPOSAL OF MEN WHO WILL DIRECT THE NEW CORPORATION

Shortly Before 2 o'clock It Is Announced That $25,000 and More Has Been Subscribed.

WORK TO PROCEED

Raising the little sum of $25,000 is no task at all for Clearfield's up and doing business men when they are clearly convinced that there is a need for the money. It will be recalled that all through the war and ever since it has been no great trouble to get assistance for any worthy project.

When the business men started out to organize a company for the purpose of aiding the home loving citizen to build his own home they were convinced that there was a real need for such a corporation. They also realized that the bulk of the available land for building purposes was very rapidly falling into the hands of speculators and that if quick action was not taken this town would be threatened as to growth.

With a will they fell to the task of raising money for the capital stock—$25,000. For four days the proposition was advertised in the newspapers and a letter was sent out to those who it was felt should, could and would lend the corporation the money to carry on its business.

Nine o'clock today was the hour set for accepting subscriptions. At two o'clock a meeting of the subscription committee was called and it was promptly announced that the issue had been oversubscribed.

This will enable the new stockholders to organize, elect their board of directors and get the business of the corporation under way.

COMMERCIAL CLUB MEETING

The regular meeting of the Commercial Club this evening at 6:15 will be held at the old accustomed place, "Jordie's", and it is important that a large attendance of members be present. The several special meetings last month prevented the taking up of considerable club business and an effort will be made to clean up the slate.

Fate in Soviet Hands

His Holiness, Tikhon, patriarch of all Russia, who faces trial for his life before the Soviet government of Russia in the near future. Charges against him are practically the same as those against Monsignor Budkewicz, vicar general of the Roman Catholic Church who was executed recently and whose death was protested by many nations.

PINCHOT URGES THE CREATION OF 100 MOTORCYCLE COPS TO CURB SPEEDING AND OTHER TRAFFIC LAW VIOLATIONS

Harrisburg, April 9.—Governor Pinchot today urged the creation of a corps of 100 state motor cops to patrol the highways of Pennsylvania for the purpose of curbing speeding and other violations of motor laws.

DUFFOLD DIES AND WIDOW IS CHARGED WITH HIS MURDER

New Castle, Pa., April 9.—Prostrated by the news of the death of Carl Duffold, local merchant, whom she shot last Friday after he was alleged to have "turned her down," Mrs. Josephine Best today heard a murder charge read to her in the county jail here.

The information charging her with murder was made this morning before Alderman Hamilton. It was intended to take Mrs. Best, a widow, to an older man's office for arraignment but her weakened condition would not permit this.

An inquest into the shooting of Duffold, who was alleged about to break off relations with Mrs. Best extending over a period of several years, at the request of his wife, will be held Thursday evening.

NATIONAL BANKS IN PENNSYLVANIA WIN BIG COURT BATTLE

Philadelphia, April 9.—The rights of national banks of Pennsylvania to act in the capacity of fiduciary in estates for decedents was permanently and finally established today by the supreme court in an opinion rendered by Justice Fraser today.

Under the decision, sweeping in its rule, national banks may now legally compete with trust companies for this business, which is known as orphan's court business and is considerable.

TRIAL OF FIEND BEGINS TODAY IN PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, April 9.—The trial of Wylie F. Morgan of Maude, Texas, confessed kidnapper and slayer of little 6-year-old Lillian Gilmore began today before Judge Monaghan.

Extra guards and policemen were placed around the court house to prevent an outbreak against the prisoner, who is charged with one of the most heinous crimes in the annals of Philadelphia.

The defense will be that Morgan is insane. Affidavits have been secured from Texas to the effect that insanity existed in the Morgan family.

ANTI-KLANNERS ARE ACCUSED OF BOMB PLANT AT CHICAGO

Chicago, April 9.—A bomb, police declared, hurled by opponents of the Ku Klux Klan, practically wrecked Albert Kurasch's drug store on 47th street and rocked the adjacent neighborhood today.

The explosion was the third here since Friday, for which enemies of the Klan were blamed. Every showcase in the drug store was shattered. Mrs. Thomas Carey, a widow, and five children, who lived above the place, were hurled from their beds.

Kurasch, owner of the store, denied to Police Lieutenant Rank that he was connected with the Klan but stated an anti-Klan publication recently printed his name as a member.

WENDELL LUCAS IS HELD FOR COURT UNDER $1500 BAIL

Following Finding of the Coroner's Jury Auto Driver Who Killed Boy Is Arrested

TO ANSWER IN MAY

Wendell Lucas, of Dorcy street, whose car ran down and killed little Tony Loffredi near the corner of Fifth and Daisy streets shortly before 1 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, was arrested this morning charged with involuntary manslaughter and is held in $1,500 bail for his appearance at May term of court.

Following the fatal accident Saturday afternoon District Attorney Arnold got in touch with County Coroner Dr. J. I. Pollum and the latter drove over from his home in DuBois to investigate the happening.

Arriving here the Coroner impounded a jury consisting of the following citizens: W. I. Curley, C. A. Anderson, John Hunter and W. J. Leavy of Clearfield; William H. Grampian and Samuel A. Grampian of the eye witnesses to the tragedy to give their testimony as to the accident. Among those who testified were Joseph Harvey, C. E. Gardner, Deason Williams, Jesse Flegal, Louis Barone, and Wendell Lucas.

The testimony all tended to show that Lucas was driving at least 25 miles per hour and in view of the stories told by the witnesses the jury held that the driver of the car was guilty of negligence.

Following is the report of the Coroner's Jury:

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, County of Clearfield.

Inquisition taken at the Borough of Clearfield, in the said County of Clearfield, the 7th day of April 1923, before J. I. Pollum, Coroner of the County aforesaid, and upon the solemn oaths of W. I. Curley, C. A. Anderson, John Hunter, W. J. Leavy and Wilson Rafferty, his good and lawful men of the County aforesaid, charged to inquire when, where and by what means Tony Loffredi came to his death; who, having viewed the body of the said Tony Loffredi and having heard the evidence produced before them, do find and say that he, the said Tony Loffredi, came to his death on Daisy street, at or near the intersection of Fifth and Daisy streets, in the Borough of Clearfield aforesaid, at 12:30 o'clock P. M. of April 7th, 1923 by means of a Jewett Roadster, driven by Wendell S. Lucas, and according to the evidence produced before us do say that Wendell S. Lucas did not use proper precautions at an intersection of streets, therefore be liable him to have been negligent and the building trade may be added to this number. Labor unrest presents perhaps the most serious difficulty.

In witness whereof, as well as the said Coroner as the said jurors have to this inquisition set their hands and seals the day and year first above written.

This morning District Attorney Arnold prepared an information charging Wendell Lucas with involuntary manslaughter and he was arrested by Constable Sunderland on a warrant issued by "Squire" Chordening and promptly gave bail in the sum of $1500 for his appearance at May term of court.

DOMESTIC DIFFICULTIES RESET BONAR LAW AS PARLIAMENT IS CALLED

London, April 9.—Domestic difficulties, which have piled up steadily since inauguration of the Bonar Law administration, confronted the government as Parliament reassembled with 100,000 workers on strike and the possibility that half a million in the building trade may be added to this number. Labor unrest presents perhaps the most serious difficulty.

EXTENSIVE RESEARCH FOR "HUNGRY HEARTS"

Very few people not connected with the producing of motion pictures realize the immense amount of research work required to make a picture in which scenes are laid in a foreign country. When "Hungry Hearts," which will be seen at the Driggs Theatre for two days, commencing tomorrow, was filmed at the Goldwyn studios, E. Mason Hopper, the director, insisted on absolute correctness, down to the smallest detail, so Irvin Lossman, newspaper writer and social worker who had just returned from Russia, was engaged as a technical adviser. The first scenes of the photoplay are in Russia, while the latter part of the picture is laid in New York.

The story is by Anzia Yezierska, who was herself a Russian immigrant. She spent several months at the Culver City studio collaborating with Julien Josephson on the continuity.

Covers were laid for 18, the tables were unique with their decorations, the color scheme being yellow and white. Los Angeles Times, April 1.

GIRL SCOUT MOVIE BENEFIT

The Girl Scout movie benefit this Friday afternoon and evening promises to have two very fine films for its patrons. "The Golden Eagle" from Scout headquarters in New York draws its story from the life of a girl who becomes a Scout and finds the best in it. The accompanying film, "The Lure of Egypt," is taken from a novel, "There Was a King in Egypt," portraying among other things the opening of one of the ancient tombs—quite to the point in these days of King Tut. There is, of course, a love story as well. Those who attend will kill several birds with the one stone—show their interest in the Scouts, help defray the expenses and see an excellent show. Any surplus receipts will go toward uniforms.

All Girl Scouts who are going to sell tickets for the movie Friday will meet at the Scout home Monday afternoon to get them. All are asked to be advertising the matter and drumming up as much trade as possible in the interval as it will take a big common effort to put it across. Much is at stake.

Dear Sir:—
Being a reader of your local paper I did not miss the account of the robbery the other night and also the heroic efforts of our local sleuth in trying to run down the intruder.
We would like to say for the benefit of our local sleuth that the next time anything like that is staged we would suggest that he before hand call on Colonel Mack Kuhn, the man who never misses, to assist.
And still again we do not know whether the Colonel would have been very much good on the scene as from the way Detective Eppers directed the fire from his trusty automatic the intruder must have been so badly scared

that he was walking along in the air for we are informed that our friend Truman Norris had to leave his bed on the second floor and retreat to the cellar for protection.
Now being strong for public safety I would like to offer a suggestion and that is that we decorate our friend and protector Otto with a medal for bravery and also add to the force the widely known Colonel Mack Kuhn. Then we may sleep in peace.

TO FIGHT FOR WORLD PEACE

International Veterans' Association Asks Assistance From Ex-Servicemen in All Countries.

Recommending the establishment of an international court followed by universal disarmament, the International Veterans' Association at its convention in New Orleans has called upon ex-servicemen in all allied countries to take up the fight for world peace. Charles H. Heston, a member of the French Chamber of Deputies, was re-elected president of the organization.

Another prominent delegate was Julian David, a member of the Belgian chamber of deputies one of the few who escaped capture by the Germans who he escaped and returned to his old country. Kato Glos, head of the Italian delegation, was wounded four times in the last war.

Delegates of the convention were accompanied by twenty-eight representatives from the following countries: United Kingdom, Belgium, France, Italy, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Serbia.

A spokesman for the convention delegates said that the delegates considered the League of Nations as the best way to achieve world peace.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

There is at least one point in Biblical history that we have never been able to get quite clear and having been asked to decide same here with pass it along for some better posted bibliophile. But, let's go—

"Methuselah lived 969 years. He was 187 years old when his son, Lamech, was born. Lamech was 182 years old when his son, Noah, was born and the flood which destroyed all human life on earth except eight came when Noah was 600 years of age. These figures—187, 182 and 600, added together, produce exactly 969, showing that the flood came in the year Methuselah died, and the question rose whether Noah had left his grandfather outside the ark to swim or drown."

Have you ever noticed right here in Clearfield that almost every last auto truck driver in the town fails to observe the necessary precautions in dashing about town. We do not as yet have a daily complaint against truck drivers and from every section of town, at that.

From the many files of the Pension Bureau has come the romantic story of two American women who served as private soldiers in the Revolutionary and Civil wars, fought on the battlefields, were wounded and received pensions from the government. They are the only women in American history to whom pensions were given for actual military service.

The women warriors were Deborah Gannett, of Massachusetts, who fought throughout the revolution, and "Albert" D. J. Cashier, whose real name was Rodgers, but whose Christian name was never revealed, she serving throughout the Civil War.

The records show that Deborah Gannett enlisted in April 1781, in a Massachusetts regiment, commanded by Colonel Henry Jackson, under the name of "Robert Shurtliff," and served until November, 1783. She participated in the Battle of Tarrytown, where she was wounded, and was in the ranks when Lord Cornwallis was captured. Her identity was revealed after the war. And in 1838 Congress passed a special bill for her pension, in which she was described as "Deborah Gannett, a soldier of the Revolution."

The record of the other woman soldier is even more romantic. She enlisted as a private in Company G, Ninety-fifth Illinois Infantry, in August, 1862, and was mustered out in August, 1865. At the time she joined the army she was nineteen years of age, with blue eyes and auburn hair. She gave her occupation as a farmer's residence, Belvidere, Ill.

During the war she was in the engagements leading to the fall of Vicksburg and in the Jackson and East Meridian raids. The Red River expedition, capture of Fort de Russay, and the battle of Old River, Clontierville, Mansura and Yellow Bayou. In April, 1864, she was in the thick of the fight at Guntown, Mississippi, and later in the battle of Nashville, and the pursuit of General Hood's army. After the war she returned to Illinois and worked on a farm, but later became an inmate of the Soldiers' Home at Quincy and was awarded a pension. It was while engaged in farm labor during a brief absence from the home that she was struck by an automobile and her leg fractured. While receiving medical attention her

Public Opinion

Public opinion is often wrong in the beginning; it is always right in the end. And the reason is that, at first, it is formed by the passions of the unthinking many, ignorant of mankind, but interested in passing events; at last, on the reason of the thinking few, whose judgment had been enlightened by experience, to whom alone the past is an object of interest, and by whom the verdict of posterity is foretold.

Emerson Set Example.

Emerson was the first man in this country, or in any other, so far as I know, who made a religion of walking—the first to announce a Gospel of the Wild.—John Burroughs.

Either there is a Republican party which stands for certain definite principles, policies and traditions, or there isn't. Either there is a government by political parties, or it isn't. The time has come for the restoration of majority rule in political parties and in the nation. This means the abolition of the filibuster in the Senate and the restoration of the party caucus in both branches of Congress. No political party can meet responsibilities without assuming authority, and there can be neither party responsibility nor authority when minorities insist upon controlling majorities by threats of disloyalty unless the minority is permitted to control the organization and the program of the party. No man who has sought election to Congress at the hands of a political party by the process of majority decision, should be permitted to enter a party caucus except on agreement to abide by majority decisions as to organization. On matters of principle no majority can bind the conscience of the individual legislator, if the question involved be one of conscience rather than of mere policy. But where an individual member of Congress wishes to bolt the decision of the majority he should do so publicly and on his own responsibility and throw the matter out with his own constituents. Party irregularities have in recent years been presuming too much on the party loyalty of men who belong to parties from conviction rather than as factionalists or from a desire to use political parties for the promotion of personal fads or as mere means of obtaining personal power. There must be some give and take in these matters, or political parties will be unable to withstand the effects of minority usage. Majority government and representative government must be restored in political parties and in the country or there is likely to be no party and perhaps no country left within the next few years.

BEST INFORMED LEGION MAN

Columbia (S. C.) Committeeman Up on All Hospitalization and Rehabilitation Questions.

"The best informed American Legion member in this country on all questions dealing with hospitalization and rehabilitation," is the way Alvin Owsley, Legion committee member, describes Joe Sparks of Columbia, S. C., a newly-appointed chairman of the legion's national rehabilitation committee.

The ability of Mr. Sparks to co-operate with the United States Veterans' bureau was also noted by Mr. Owsley as one of his strongest recommendations. Mr. Sparks' work as Legion liaison representative at the headquarters of the Fifth United States Veterans' bureau district has drawn national attention to such an extent that Legion headquarters has received a flood of telegrams from the North and West urging his appointment since the Legion convention.

During Mr. Sparks' term the Fifth district was rated more than 92 per cent efficient, the highest of all 14 districts. Out of a total of 2,600 patients in ex-service hospitals, 2,100 veterans have been rated total temporary disability and 400 claims are being adjudicated.

Although Mr. Sparks was well over the drift age, he served as a "buck private" in the Fifth-seventh and Third Divisions during the World war. Mr. Sparks was born in Laurens county, S. C., thirty-seven years ago. Later he went to Columbia, where he got a job as a newspaper reporter. He was a member of the Columbia State, one of the most influential newspapers in the South, when he enlisted.

Returning from the army, Mr. Sparks became connected with a large New York life insurance company. His work with the Legion has been in Atlanta and in New York.

NEED OF PHYSICAL EXERCISE

Director of Legion's Americanization Commission Cites Reasons Why Many Were Disqualified.

Most of the physical defects which disqualified almost a quarter of the men enrolled in the army draft could have been prevented by adequate physical education programs, according to Garland W. Powell, director of the American Legion's Americanization commission.

A prominent medical authority makes the following statements on the subject of draft disqualification, according to Mr. Powell:

"1. Heart disease could be prevented by proper strengthening of the heart through physical activities, removal of physical defects such as bad tonsils and infected teeth. 2. Malformation of the limbs may be prevented to some extent by proper physical activities. 3. Defective vision oftentimes could be prevented by exercise. 4. Undersize would not exist in many cases if there were physical activity and proper instruction in regard to nutrition, preparation of food and the like. 5. Hernia undoubtedly in the majority of cases would be prevented by the development of abdominal muscles. 6. Instruction in care of the feet and selection of shoes will prevent a large proportion of flat feet."

A DAY TO CELEBRATE

Washington, April 9.—"The recognition on December 2nd, 1922, of the American people to the great principle enunciated by James Monroe one hundred years before will be a most salutary ceremonial," declares the Republican Publicity Association, through its President, Hon. Jonathan Borne, Jr. "Along about the first of February Senator Calder of New York, introduced a resolution for the participation of the United States in the observance of the one hundredth anniversary of the enunciation of the Monroe Doctrine," which passed the Senate February 24th and was taken up by Representative Bland of Indiana, Chairman of the Committee on Industrial Arts and Expositions. It got as far as the Union Calendar, but became a victim of legislative congestion. On January 24th a bill was approved for the coinage of 50-cent pieces commemorative of the Monroe Doctrine. That was about as far as Congress proceeded in the matter, and since it does not meet again until the day after the centenary of the doctrine, it is up to the citizens of the country to take unofficial but no less effective action.

That they have such a notion in mind is indicated by the recent selection of George Henry Payne, proprietor of "The Forum", New York, as temporary chairman of the Monroe Doctrine Centenary Committee which is arranging to celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of Monroe's courageous announcement to the world of the attitude of the United States toward attempts to extend European imperialism to the Western Hemisphere. Payne is a live one and may be depended upon to make December 2 a memorable occasion.

"Mr. Wilson and his international friends did the same thing to scrap the Monroe Doctrine and substitute the league of nations therefore. There are many indications that they are planning to do it again. If they win to power, for that reason, if for no other, the celebration this year should be so general and so vigorous as to impress upon the minds of the internationalists for years to come the fact that the American people prefer to stay clear of European politics.

"In this connection it is well to recall Jefferson's reply to Monroe when the latter sought his advice on the policy proposed by Carnarvon, the British premier, which gave impetus to the Monroe Doctrine. Carnarvon desired to sign up in a joint understanding, respecting the Latin American States, and Jefferson replied to Monroe: "Our first and fundamental maxim should be never to entangle ourselves in the politics of Europe; our second, never to suffer Europe to intermeddle with cis-Atlantic affairs. Jefferson rather favored the Carnarvon proposal as one which might effect a division in the body of European powers," but Adams, then Secretary of State, saw the advisability of our acting independently of England, hence the Monroe Doctrine became an essentially American pronouncement. The Wilsonians were intent on discarding not only the doctrine but the view of the great Democratic exemplar as well, and they still adhere to that intention.

"When the Great Britain-Venezuela boundary dispute was on in 1895, Grover Cleveland stamped down the address of Congress December 17th, saying: 'It will in my opinion be the duty of the United States to resist by every means in its power, as a wilful aggression upon its rights and interests, the appropriation by Great Britain of any part of the exercise of government jurisdiction over any territory, which after investigation we have determined of right belong to Venezuela.' The controversy was amicably settled, but imagine what the result would have been had it been submitted to the league of nations, with Europe avid to expand in South America.

"It is up to the American people to get behind the Centenary Committee and Mr. Payne and put the celebration over with true national enthusiasm."

TITLE BILL WILL LESSEN AUTO THEFTS

Harrisburg, April 8.—Passage of the bill now before the Legislature providing for the titling of motor vehicles not only will decrease automobile thefts in Pennsylvania but will end the license congestion at the close of the year and eventually result in money saving to automobile owners because of lessening notarial fees, according to Benjamin G. Eynon state registrar of motor vehicles.

The bill proposes a law requiring the registration at Harrisburg of titles, similar to real estate titles, by owners of all Pennsylvania registered motor vehicles, and provides for transfer title, protection of all persons at interest and elimination of vendor and vendee affidavits.

Title laws are now in force in Maryland, Delaware, Indiana, Michigan, Missouri, Kentucky, North Carolina and Ohio and similar bills are pending in New York and Wisconsin legislatures. In states where the law is in effect automobile thefts have decreased 40 to 50 per cent, according to Register Eynon, who believes thefts can be wiped out entirely by the enactment of uniform title laws in all states.

If the proposed Pennsylvania act becomes a law a great convenience of service will be rendered vehicle owners because, from records on file in the highway department, it is proposed each year to forward to all owners an application with correct data relative to the vehicle he owns, and with his signature and the necessary fee this will be the only document required to secure a renewal of his license.

The advantage of thus securing an application correct in every particular will be appreciated by at least 135,000 owners whose applications were returned to them in 1922 for correction. Departmental mailing of applications will lessen the huge license rush the latter part of the year.

SURPRISE PARTY

A surprise party was held at the home of Mrs. Albert Hubler in honor of her father, William Boulton. The occasion was Mr. Boulton's sixty-sixth birthday. Twenty-seven guests were present. Elegant refreshments were served and all departed home wishing Mr. Boulton many more happy birthdays.

ROBBERS VISIT CURWENSVILLE STORE

The store of Kantar & Sons at Curwensville was broken into and robbed some time Saturday or Sunday night last and a considerable quantity of men's and women's suits, clothing and furnishings taken.

The robbery was discovered when the store was opened for business this morning. The thieves gained entrance by jimmying the rear window.

Chief of Police Clark is working on the case and following a clue which he expects will land the burglars before many days.

BANKER IS MANAGER OF COTTON GROWERS ANNUAL BUSINESS OF MARKET ASSOCIATION

Allen Northington to Direct the Alabama Farm Bureau Association.

"We are tired of spellbinders and hope, the man who is to direct our organization must have made a success of his own affairs and the affairs he has handled for others. He must be a two-headed, bull-necked hog-slayer." So said the Alabama growers of cotton when they formed the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association.

Their next step was to reach over the First National Bank of Pratt.

Allen Northington, General Manager of Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association.

Mr. Northington has been general manager of the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association since it was organized, July 1, 1922. He has secured an interest rate of five and six per centum for $4,000,000 in 1922, and the organization has made advances to its farmers, and has an unexpended credit account of $1,000,000 with the War Finance Corporation, and $3,000,000 with other financial institutions.

First the farmers were advanced 12 cents a pound on their cotton, then 3 cents more, and now preparations are being made for an additional 3 cents, making the total to 20 cents a pound. This will be represented in some cases $5,000,000, and more advances are to be made.

The association has sold more than 15,000 bales of cotton so far and the average price is above 25 cents a pound.

ARM BUREAU 1923 PROGRAM

A Long Outstanding Object is Plan for Meeting Each Month in Every Township.

The Crawford County, Iowa, farm bureau at its annual meeting held recently in Atlanta adopted a most progressive agricultural program for the year 1923. Some of the outstanding projects are: A meeting each month in each township in the county; county marketing committee; co-operation with the wool producers, purchase of a poultry show, etc. Graduation of its members in the county with a special committee handling the work; day camps; poultry culling, tax cutting; promotion of boys' and girls' work; development of projects of interest to women; supply the county with farm news from every township, with a correspondent in each of these towns.

I suppose the above many other minor projects have been adopted and will be carried out by the officers and the directors.

But There Are Others. Very much more interest in the earth and its crops than other tenants.—Wall Street Journal.

Amount Placed at $58,500,000 by Secretary of New York Farm Bureau Federation.

An annual business of $58,500,000 was done by the co-operative marketing associations of New York State last year, according to figures received at the office of E. V. Underwood, secretary of the New York State Farm Bureau Federation. This amount does not include the co-operative purchasing done by the Grange League Federation Exchange, Syracuse, N. Y.

Three co-operatives of the state exceeded a total annual business of two million dollars. They were the Dairyman's League Co-operative Association, Utica, N. Y., the Eastern States Milk Producers, Syracuse, N. Y., and the Western New York Fruit Growers Co-operative Packing Association, Inc., Rochester, N. Y., showing respectively an annual business of $48,700,000; $5,000,000; and $2,500,000.

Forty per cent of the farmers of New York State are members of co-operative associations, of which there are twelve in the state of state-wide scope. They market milk and dairy products, potatoes and cabbage, seed potatoes, wool, maple syrup, fruits, and cattle. Over 100,000 individual farmers sell their products collectively through the co-operative associations.

SUCCESSFUL HEALTH CAMPAIGN BY BUREAU

Much Good Accomplished in Increasing Amount of Milk Consumed by Children.

Greene County, Iowa, has attracted considerable attention with a successful health campaign recently put on through the co-operation of the extension service, Ames, and the local farm bureau organization.

County Agent, C. W. Davis, in speaking of the work, says: "We are receiving many encouraging reports since the campaign of the good which it has done in increasing the consumption of milk on the part of school children. It has also done a great deal of good in bringing the matter of care of milk to the attention of people, especially in regard to testing of cows which are producing the milk. This is one of the most important results of such a campaign, for after all the protection of the children against the use of infected milk is of greatest importance."

"A summary of the work shows that farmers traveled 715 miles, that 78 talks were given and that 2,550 people were reached. The number of pieces of literature distributed is 6,000. Plays were put on in several communities and others are planning on putting on such plays sometime during the winter months."

ILLINOIS WOOL POOL SAVES

Farmers Have Expressed Their Satisfaction With Prices Received for 1921 Clip.

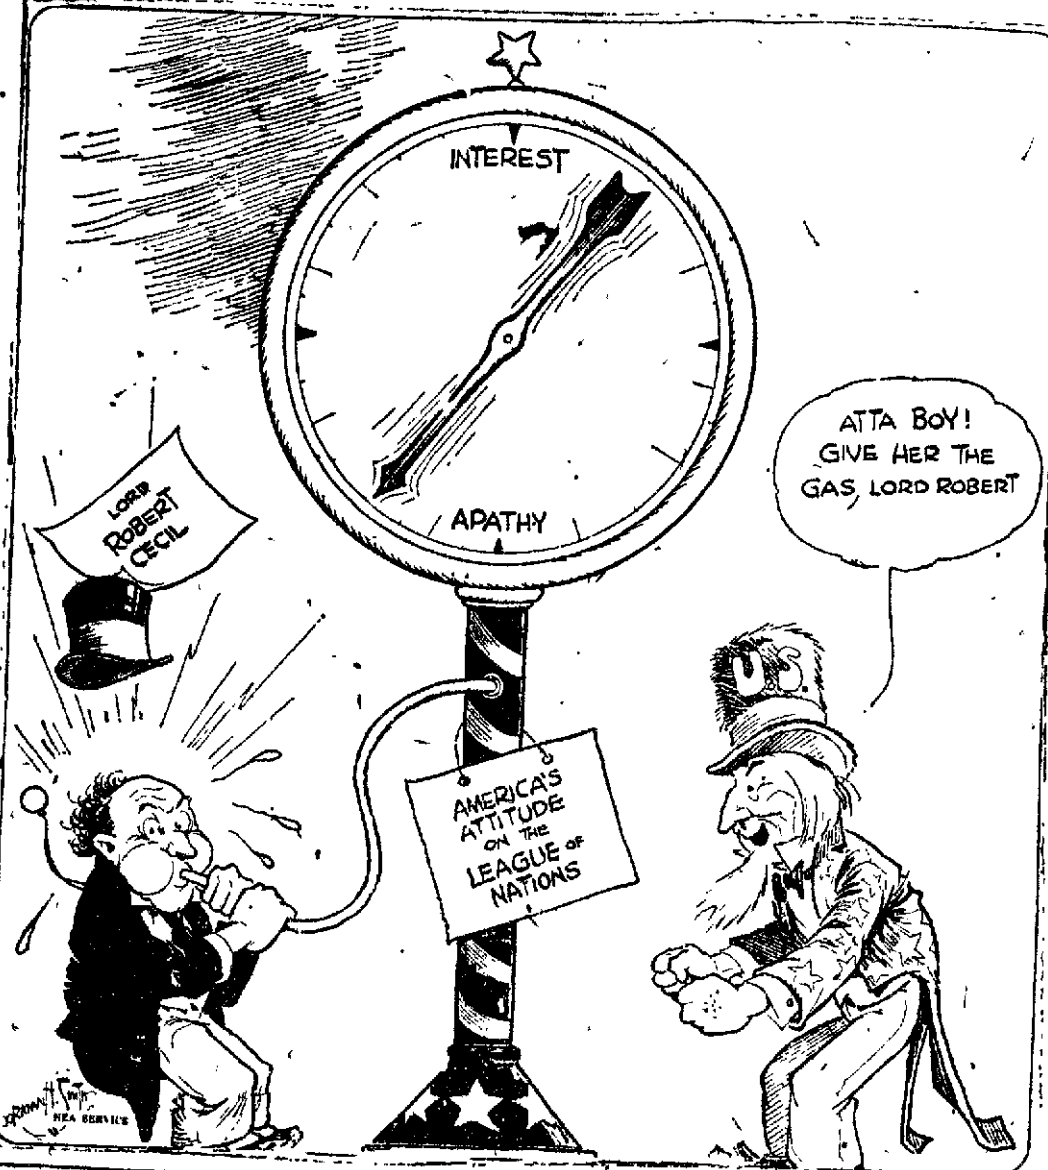

The results of the 1921 Illinois wool pool show that $14,000 net has been added to its members. Farmers have expressed their satisfaction with the prices received. Seventy-seven counties took part in forming the collection. The prices obtained, for 47,915 pounds returned an average of 45 cents a pound; 14,336 pounds of three-eighths staple, an average of 46 cents; 22,104 pounds of one-fourth clothing, average 35 1/2 cents; 14,719 of low one-quarter returned an average of 34 cents.

Other grades in varying amounts average prices as follows: One-half blood, 52 cents; one-half blood clothing, 40 cents; three-eighths blood clothing, 41 cents; braid, 30 cents; medium burry, 34 1/2 cents; fine burry, 38 cents; medium black, 14 1/2 cents; dead, 20 1/2 cents.

Farmers are beginning to learn through the wool pool what grades of wool are in most demand, and thus are concentrating on producing the wool that brings the best return.

MELLON WOULD CUT THE SURTAX RATE ON INCOME VERY SOON

Washington, April 8.—Possible efforts by the treasury to have Congress cut the surtax rate on incomes were forecast today by Secretary Mellon, who asserted that March collections of income and profit taxes aggregating $468,000,000 had fully justified his prediction that downward revision would have the effect of actual increasing instead of decreasing the federal revenue.

He declared that although higher rates were in effect in March, 1922, the collections at that time were $70,000,000 less than in the same month this year, a circumstance which he regarded as proof that the downward revision had acted as a stimulus to business.

THE MYSTERY ADVERTISEMENT BY E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

Copyright, 1922, by E. Phillips Oppenheim
Attn: NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Vendetta begins between
MICHAEL SAYERS, noted criminal.

MR. NORMAN GREYER, once of Scotland Yard, when Sayers' beautiful housemaid, Janet, was shot dead, an officer sent to arrest him. Greyer falls in love with Janet and proposes marriage. Michael, disguised himself as Colonel Macomber and stands the wedding reception. Having stolen a pearl necklace, gift of Sir Norman to his bride, Sayers gives them to his wife. Janet, who is a double agent, answers a letter published in a paper and buys from the divorced wife of a politician, a bundle of manuscript evidence against the woman's former husband. Upon reading the manuscript, Michael learns that the reputation of a leading politician and Lord Kindersley are in his hands. Sayers considers the best way to turn his price into money.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY
Michael Tells Story:

"Not on my account," I insisted. "The transaction must remain exactly as it is until I give the word." I rang off, filled my bag, as usual, with stationery samples and took the tube to Bond Street, whence I walked on to South Audley Street. Upon arrival at my destination, I was informed by an imposing-looking butler that Lord Kindersley was at home but it was so late that he would receive me unless I had an appointment. I risked the butler's being human, and bought my way as far as the waiting-room. Once arrived there, I managed to impress an untidy and bespectacled secretary with the idea that it might be worth Lord Kindersley's while to see me a few minutes of his time. In the end I was ushered into the great man's mansion.

"What can I do for you?" Mr. Kindersley inquired, glancing at my card. "I was anxious to test my new identity, and I stood full in the light. It was obvious, however, that Lord Kindersley had not an idea that I was Michael Sayers. I do not wish for a penny of your money. I am here, in fact, to save you from the loss of a great deal of it. My visit, nevertheless, has a very serious side."

He looked at me steadily from under his bushy eyebrows. "Go on," he invited curtly. "Last March," I continued, "you averted the threatened shipping strike and saved yourself the loss of at least one of your millions by being a well-known labor leader to declare for peace instead of war. You and one other great shipowner were alone concerned in this matter. That other man, I gather, is dead."

Lord Kindersley was staring at me with a queer look in his eyes. His voice, when he answered me, was unsteady. "What an earth are you talking about?" I took the two documents from my pocket and moved a little nearer to him. "Here," I said, "is Randall's proposed speech, counseling the strike and signed by the leaders of the various unions. Here, also, is your letter to Randall, making him the offer of $50,000 pounds to withhold it, which sum was paid to him the next evening at the National Liberal Club."

All the initial affability and cordiality had gone from Lord Kindersley's manner. He looked like a man on the verge of a collapse. "My God!" he muttered. "Randall swore he had destroyed my letter!" "He instructed his wife to do so. She retained it for her own purposes. A few months ago her husband divorced her. This is her revenge. She has sold the copy of the speech and the letter to me. I know, also, the other facts in connection with the case."

Lord Kindersley took out his handkerchief and mopped his forehead. Already he began to sweat. "I will buy those documents from you," he proposed. "Your Lordship," I replied, "I am not a blackmailer."

"You shall receive the money quite safely," he went on eagerly. "I should not dream of communicating with the police. I shall look upon it as an equitable business transaction. Name your price. I am not a mean man."

"Neither, as I remarked before, am I a blackmailer," I persisted. "My mailing idea out of your head. Look here: stay and have lunch with me, and we'll discuss the matter over a cigar and a glass of wine."

"I should be taking your lunch under false pretenses," I replied, rising and buttoning my coat. "You shall have the four days' grace which I have promised."

He followed me to the door, entreating me for my address. So convinced was he that I would change my mind, that he sent his secretary out into the street after me. In the end I made my escape by promising to see him again on the evening of the third day.

I TOOK my usual leisurely lunch and afterward made my way to the unimpeachable neighborhood of St. James's. The Towers, which I had discovered from a book of reference to be Mr. Edward Rendall's address, was a hopelessly vulgar address of gray stone, approached by what is generally described as a short carriage drive. The popular M. P., as was his boast, was not in the least difficult of access. He came into the room within a few minutes, a pipe in his mouth, and giving evidence of all the easy good-nature which befit his position.

"Don't know who you are, Mr. Buckcross," he said, nothing with some surprise that I had not availed myself of the opportunity of shaking hands with him, "but sit down, and welcome. What can I do for you?"

"I have brought you bad news, Mr. Rendall," I announced.

"The devil you have," he answered, removing his pipe from his teeth and staring at me. "Who are you, anyway? I don't seem to recognize your name."

"That really doesn't matter," I replied. "You can call me a journalist, if you like. It's as near the truth as anything about myself that I'm likely to tell you. Something very disagreeable is going to happen to you on the fourth day from now, and as a party responsible for it, I have come out here to give you a word of warning."

"You're getting at me," he protested uneasily.

"Not in the least," I assured him. "The fact is, which I should mention, I have in my possession a copy of the speech which you ought to have made at Liverpool last March and didn't, and also the original letter from Lord Kindersley, offering you $50,000 pounds to hold it up. I also know that you received that money on the following evening at the National Liberal Club, and I know what thanks you intrusted it to."

"STOP!" HE SHOUTED AS I TURNED TOWARD THE DOOR. "HOW DID YOU COME BY THIS STORY?"

use for these letters is predestined. They go to the press."

Lord Kindersley sprang to his feet. "Listen," he said impressively: "no newspaper would deal with you as liberally as I am prepared to do. Those documents must not be published. It is well-known that I had a great influence on Randall to hold up that speech, Labor would declare war against me tomorrow. Not a man would stay in my employ. Besides, it would bring discredit upon my party. It would ruin me politically as well as actually. Come, now, Mr. Buckcross, you look like a business man. Let's talk business. I'll write you a check for ten thousand pounds this morning."

"Your Lordship," I replied, "if I dealt with you in the way you suggest, it would amount to a criminal offense. My conscience forbids it. I can deal with the press fairly and openly. Your political ruin I cannot help. Your financial ruin I may help you to modify. I offer you four days' grace during which time you had better get rid of as many of your shares in the Kindersley Shipping Company as you can."

"You promise to do nothing for four days?" Lord Kindersley exclaimed eagerly.

"I promise."

He leaned back in his chair and mopped his forehead. "Well, that's a respite, at any rate," he said. "Now, Mr. Buckcross, you and I have got to understand each other on this deal."

"We shall never get any nearer understanding each other than we do at present," I assured him.

"Rubbish!" he answered. "What I want you to do is to get that black-mailing idea out of your head. Look here: stay and have lunch with me, and we'll discuss the matter over a cigar and a glass of wine."

"I should be taking your lunch under false pretenses," I replied, rising and buttoning my coat. "You shall have the four days' grace which I have promised."

ISAAC M. STAGE, RETIRED BUSINESS MAN, DIED SUNDAY

Isaac M. Stage, one of Clearfield's best known citizens and retired business men, passed away at his home on West Fourth avenue at 6:30 p. m. on Sunday, April 8, 1923, as the result of a paralytic stroke, following a general decline in health extending over a period of several years, in the 72d year of his age.

Isaac M. Stage was the son of John and Catherine Ehrgood Stage and was born on Chestnut Ridge, Pike township, this county, on May 1st, 1851. He was married in October, 1872, to Margaret Norris and went to housekeeping on the Mitchell Stone House farm in Lawrence township and since that time has lived in this vicinity. To this union were born fourteen children, five of whom died in infancy.

Mr. Stage engaged in farming in his early manhood, later embarking in the butchering business and for many years conducted a meat market in Clearfield. Being careful and conservative and a keen business man, he invested his savings to advantage in real estate adjoining the town, which included the fine farm at Montgomery and his holdings immediately adjacent to the borough line surrounding his West Fourth avenue residence.

This property was underlaid with several seams of coal and for the past twenty-five years Mr. Stage was the leading local coal dealer. He was public-spirited and possessed the real spirit of town pride and his generous contribution made possible the paving of the upper portion of West Market street.

At the organization of the Farmers' Bank in Clearfield Mr. Stage was honored with the presidency of that institution and continued in that capacity until failing health forced him to retire from active business, since which time his coal and other business has been carried on by his sons, Clyde and Edgar. During the past year he failed quite rapidly in health and a few days ago suffered a stroke which paralyzed his right side, and from that time on the decline was rapid until the end came, as stated above.

Of a quiet, retiring disposition, Isaac Stage possessed those attributes of sterling, rugged honesty and square dealing which marked the business man of the old school. He was the soul of honor, whose word was his bond and who, passing away in the fullness of his years, leaves to his family the priceless heritage of a good name.

While deeply engrossed in the affairs of an active business life, Isaac Stage always found time to do the Master's work and was an earnest, and most devoted member of the West Side Methodist church since first coming to this community. He attended carefully to his church duties and so lived that his life was an inspiration to those who sought to model their lives along right lines. Isaac Stage was a good citizen in the fullest sense of the term and his passing away is a real loss to this community and

PROHIB. AGENTS DID A BIG BUSINESS IN THE YEAR OF 1922

Washington, April 9.—Property value at $9,097,477 was seized during 1922 in the enforcement of prohibition, and of this amount $2,000,000 worth was destroyed.

A yearly summary made public today at prohibition headquarters showed that during the year prohibition agents seized 421,838 gallons of spirits and 4,188,875 gallons of malt liquor, of which 180,700 gallons of spirits and 3,782,173 gallons of malt liquor were destroyed. Fourteen prohibition agents were killed on duty during the year and 49 injured.

At the number of illicit distilleries seized was 10,351 and the number of stills 12,143. There were taken 119 boats and launches valued at $600,000. The statistics showed a considerable increase in the results of prohibition enforcement during the last six months as compared with the first half of 1922 due, officials said, to greater vigilance together with increased co-operation of state and other authorities.

Surprising. At the celebration of the Barba centenary in Boston in 1866 Emerson surprised his audience, according to Lambell, who was present, by presenting to his audience "The Memory of Emerson," an afraid heaven and earth have taken too good care of it to leave anything to say."

How about the Middleman?
(National Crop Improvement Service)

The average grocery store in the United States changes hands or goes out of business every seven years.

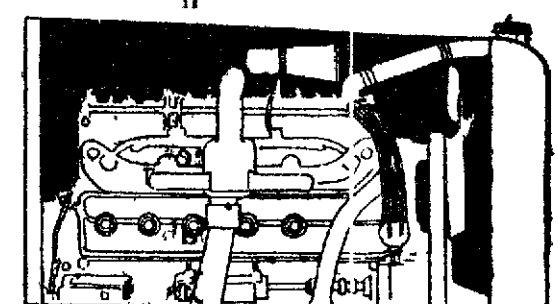

"Of the men who enter the grocery business, 5 per cent are successful, 15 per cent stagger along on the ragged edge, and 80 per cent go out of business in that time," says Mr. Kamper, President National Retail Grocers' association.

Thoughtful men in all lines of business are trying to arrive at some conclusion regarding the middleman, of whom the retail grocer is typical. It is easy to go into the groceries business. In spite of its fatalities, new stores spring up to take the place of those which have failed.

It is frequently claimed that there are too many retail stores in each neighborhood," says Dennis A. Merriman, American Steel & Wire company, "but here is the problem; do you think you could buy cheaper in the neighborhood where there is only one store, or do you think that you would fare

The Fifty-Horsepower Motor Fills the Hood!

YOU need not be an engineer to appreciate Jewett's great power. Just look under the hood at the Paige-built motor. No car within $200 of the Jewett price has a motor of equal piston displacement—249 cubic inches. And Jewett's power is not obtained at the expense of high engine speed, with its premature wear.

From the six cylinders, 3 1/2 inches, a moderate r. p. m. gives peak power. However, unusual the emergency, Jewett never strains to meet it, but handles every situation smoothly and easily. In a word, there's Paige quality in every particle of Jewett power. Let us prove to you there's no motor like it in the thousand-dollar field!

Curwensville's
Own Column

I have been stated that Rev. B. H. Conly, who has been pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Curwensville since the pastorate of Rev. Samuel Barber, has resigned from his charge and will go into a new field of labor for the uplifting of the gospel. Mr. Conly has been in Curwensville for his removal from Curwensville as yet, and it might not be for some months to come. Rev. Conly has done excellent church work since his advent in the community and has almost doubled the membership of his church. While his hundreds of friends are sorry that he is departing from the community, all wish him success and God speed in what ever new field he may open for his future work.

Miss Helen Kephart, a student at Indiana Normal, who spent her Easter vacation in Philadelphia with friends, came to Curwensville Saturday and spent Sunday with her parents on South Side before her return to her studies.

The funeral procession of the late J. W. Abel left Curwensville Sunday forenoon for Beechwoods cemetery, making the trip in automobiles. Saturday evening at 7:30 services over the deceased were held at the home on State street. A large number of ladies, members of her Bible class of the Methodist church, attended the last rites in a body. Rev. Collins delivering the scriptural address.

The following note was handed the writer with a request to have the same printed in the Curwensville column: "J. W. Hile, who has been located at Marion Centre for the past 10 years as a freight agent of the B. & P. railroad, has been promoted to be station agent at Insulin. He is a world war veteran and has been treated of fair by the railroad company ever since his term of employment. He is another one of Curwensville's boys who took advantage of every opportunity that presented itself and has made good. His many acquaintances and close friends rejoice at his advancement."

Miss May Mallon who spent some time in Curwensville with kin folks, left last part of last week for Pittsburgh, where, after spending a week she will proceed to Washington, D. C. to once again resume her duties.

Joseph Dale, after a confinement to the house by illness for a month, was able to be out on the street Saturday.

Several young ladies of town lay claim to the fact that one evening last week while they were on their way home saw a Ku Klux cross being burned on the hillside south of the upper creek bridge. The writer is unable to discover anyone else who witnessed the fire, hence has concluded they saw a mirage.

Chester B. Deering, youngest son of Barbara Deering, South Side, was married on Wednesday, April 4th, to Miss Leona Knapp, of Royville, Pa., the ceremony being performed at Endicott, N. Y., by Rev. Paul Douglas, pastor of the M. E. church of that city. The groom is employed in the tannery at Endicott, where the young couple will make their home.

TRINITY METHODIST CHURCH

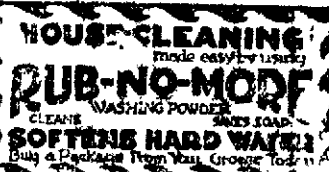

Began a good day yesterday with an interested Bible school that had a record attendance. Class work was exceptionally strong.

The morning sermon from Phillips 3:10, "That I may know the power of the resurrection of Him," set forth Christ's resurrection both real and realized, with the stress on experience and the value of the subjective in religious reality. At night Enoch was the heretic described. In the analysis of his departure from the habit of the crowd by yearning after the spiritual, the preacher showed the need of making spiritual things supreme, for this age is noted in part for its unblinking worship of mammon, coupled with lawlessness by the godless rich and the smart set, who imagine their social position and wealth protect them against reproof and exposure; for its wearisome seeking after pleasure, which upon drops into dissipation, vice and immorality. One person was admitted to membership.

The music at each service was varied in subject and sentiment. Most of the chief participants were new voices. The congregations listened eagerly.

This week's events: Wednesday mid-week congregational meeting followed by Sunday school board session. Thursday, Woman's Foreign Missionary meeting, 7:30 p. m., with supper for members and their guests. Friday, 6:30 p. m. Consonia Club dinner; special program. Lantern slides on the clay industry, with explanation by Mr. Bussard, from Philadelphia, and address by Lynn Adams, chief of the state police.

PLEASANT BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

The comfortable home of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Blyler was the scene of a happy gathering Saturday evening when about two score of the friends of Mr. Blyler gathered to give him a birthday surprise. The arrangements were in the capable hands of Mrs. Blyler and a neighbor or two, and they succeeded in making the surprise complete. There were thirty-eight persons present and a highly enjoyable time was had. Delicious refreshments were served.

The out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Barr and Mr. and Mrs. Dugan of Winbarne.

Fort Hamilton Famous.

When British troops forced a landing the first shots by an outpost of Colonial troops were fired from the spot which later became Fort Hamilton. Then it was known as Denyse's Ferry. After the disastrous battle of Long Island in 1776, a fort was built. Efforts to find the cornerstone laid in 1825 were not successful. "Stonewall" Jackson was baptized at the little church, now St. John's, and one of the historic landmarks in the city, when he was stationed at the fort in 1849. Capt. Robert E. Lee, later the noted Confederate army general, was for years in command of the post and was a vestryman of the church. The batteries have been manned for the last half century by officers who have won fame in a hundred fields in defense of their country.

Another Lamb Anecdote.

The following story, which appears in an old volume of "Leigh Hunt's Journal," throws an interesting light on Charles Lamb's beautiful relations with his stricken sister, Mary: "L. and his sister were one evening supping at Mrs. M—'s. L. (with another person) had made his way to the bottom of the second bottle of port. 'You really shall not have any more Charles,' said his sister. 'Pray, Mrs. M—, don't give him any more.' 'You hear what your sister says, Mr. Lamb?' observed Mrs. M—, pouring out the remains of the port (which was thick) into his glass. 'She is a person of mean capacity,' said he. 'I never listen to her. Try the next bottle, madame; for this is thick, and—how pitifully should run due to the last.'

Eliminate the Crude.

There are not many houses that do not shelter at least one hideous piece of furniture. This may be a chair with intricate legs or with absurdly carved arms, or a table with a lion growl or an eagle spread on its sideboard with all sorts of meaningless gnomes and ornaments. Even good lines in furniture cannot make golden oak beautiful, and yet much of this is still found in houses in which an effort to achieve beauty is made. Often it is by cleaning away the most strikingly ugly pieces that harmony is achieved. The idea that only by adding to the objects in the house can one add to the beauty of the interior is far from correct.

Pictures and Frames.

Those old picture frames that go begging around the attic or cellar may be made into some of the delightful new models with little trouble and less expense. Old white enamel or oak frames may be treated as follows: With a bit of glass carefully scrape off all the enamel or polish. Sandpaper to a smooth finish with a fine grade sandpaper and later with a finer grade. For a soft brown print the frame will be just right at this stage. Some of the newest picture frames that are finding place in the best shops show no stain or color of any kind. Artists claim that the decorative frame detracts from the beauty of the picture within.

When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold. Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous and you appear years younger.

Sports Costume

This summer sports costume answers all requirements. The skirt is striped raitine and made with a wide opening and single pocket. The long-sleeved blouse is made with a narrow belt and full sleeves that fall below the wrist. A printed bandanna handkerchief adds the final blaze of color.

Monkey in a Muff.

A monkey was used by a clever woman thief to commit a series of thefts from jewelers' shops in Paris. The creature was so tiny that she carried it in a big muff. Then while its mistress was standing at such distance from the counter as disarmed suspicion, the monkey would thrust out a long, spider-like arm and snatch and conceal a ring or brooch. It was a shop detective, hidden in a gallery above and watching with the aid of reflecting mirrors, who at last detected the trick.

Can you imagine a woman, with no domestic help, leaving her home at ten in the morning, attending luncheon and matinee and then serving a complete roast meat dinner fifteen minutes after arrival at home? That is what any woman can do with an Automatic Electric Range.

ELECTRICAL COOKING IS CHEAPEST AND BEST

With the new rates for electricity now in force, a Westinghouse range may be operated in the average home for about $5.00 per month. This, together with savings of food, kitchen decorations, time, etc., make the purchase of this stove a very attractive one.

HOUSEWAYS AND MEANS COMMITTEE STANDS PAT AGAINST RECOMMENDING ANY SORT OF TAX TO LEGISLATURE

Chairman Woner, Defiant, Says the Committee Will Refuse to Act Until Necessity Is Indicated—Will Not Take the Initiative

EVERYTHING NOW IS AT A STANDSTILL

Harrisburg, April 9.—The new taxation bill was still hanging in suspense today with neither the Governor or the Assembly willing to assume the responsibility of fixing the amount or the means of raising said amount.

Chairman Woner of the House ways and means committee, which has under consideration all tax measures introduced this session, said today that his committee would not report out any of these bills until the Governor or the Legislature indicated the necessity of new taxation. Woner said the ways and means committee would not take the initiative in the matter of new taxation.

U. S. GOVERNMENT MAY TELL MEXICO WHAT IS WRONG

Washington, April 9.—The United States government soon again may make plain to the Obregon government of Mexico the terms upon which recognition will be based.

SUGAR AND LEAGUE FIRST PROBLEMS UP TO MR. HARDING

Washington, April 27.—Back in the White House after a five-week vacation President Harding was at his task early this morning confronted by numerous problems that have piled up during his absence from Washington.

Indications are that the sugar price problem will be the first to have his attention. Progressives in Congress are ready to carry to Mr. Harding the den and that the alleged market for opium should be prosecuted to the full extent of the law and to inform him that his staff investigation is vastly insufficient.

BROAD GAUGED BUSINESS MEN OF THE CITY PUT SHOULDER TO THE WHEEL AND DOLLARS AT DISPOSAL OF MEN WHO WILL DIRECT THE NEW CORPORATION

Shortly Before 2 o'clock It Is Announced That $25,000 and More Has Been Subscribed.

WORK TO PROCEED

Raising the little sum of $25,000 is no task at all for Clearfield's up and doing business men when they are clearly convinced that there is a need for the money. It will be recalled that all through the war and ever since it has been no great trouble to get assistance for any worthy project.

When the business men started out to organize a company for the purpose of aiding the home loving citizen to build his own home they were convinced that there was a real need for such a corporation. They also realized that the bulk of the available land for building purposes was very rapidly falling into the hands of speculators and that if quick action was not taken this town would be threatened as to growth.

With a will they fell to the task of raising money for the capital stock—$25,000. For four days the proposition was advertised in the newspapers and a letter was sent out to those who it was felt should, could and would lend the corporation the money to carry on its business.

Nine o'clock today was the hour set for accepting subscriptions. At two o'clock a meeting of the subscription committee was called and it was promptly announced that the issue had been oversubscribed.

This will enable the new stockholders to organize, elect their board of directors and get the business of the corporation under way.

COMMERCIAL CLUB MEETING

The regular meeting of the Commercial Club this evening at 6:15 will be held at the old accustomed place, "Jordie's", and it is important that a large attendance of members be present. The several special meetings last month prevented the taking up of considerable club business and an effort will be made to clean up the slate.

MINERS OPPOSE THE SCRAPPING OF THE MINING DEPARTMENT

Hazleton, April 9.—That part of Governor Pinchot's reorganization plan which would make the state department of mines a subordinate bureau of another state department will be opposed by the United Mine Workers, President Thomas Kennedy of district number 7 has announced.

While the miners have no intention at this time of opposing the plan as a whole it was indicated that if necessary to prevent the submerging of the department of mines they would bring their influence to bear against the entire reorganization.

It was pointed out by Kennedy that the miners' union has been trying for years to have a federal department of mines created with a representative in the President's cabinet. The importance of the mining industry, he said, is such that it deserves a department not only in the Pennsylvania state government but in the federal government.

A fight was made years ago to lift the affairs of the mine industry out of the bureau status in the state government and the advantage gained will not be given up without resistance, Kennedy said.

POISON BOOZE IS TAKING BIG TOLL IN PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, April 9.—One man is dead and one woman and 18 other men are in hospitals today as a result of drinking poisonous liquor concoctions over the week-end, according to police.

Authorities arrested more than 250 men and women within 36 hours for drunkenness. In three weeks nine persons have died from poison booze and more than 100 persons have been taken seriously ill.

PINCHOT URGES THE CREATION OF 100 MOTORCYCLE COPS TO CURB SPEEDING AND OTHER TRAFFIC LAW VIOLATIONS

Harrisburg, April 9.—Governor Pinchot today urged the creation of a corps of 100 state motor cops to patrol the highways of Pennsylvania for the purpose of curbing speeding and other violations of motor laws.

DUFFOLD DIES AND WIDOW IS CHARGED WITH HIS MURDER

New Castle, Pa., April 9.—Prostrated by the news of the death of Carl Duffold, local merchant, whom she shot last Friday after he was alleged to have "turned her down," Mrs. Josephine Best today heard a murder charge read to her in the county jail here.

The information charging her with murder was made this morning before Alderman Hamilton. It was intended to take Mrs. Best, a widow, to an older man's office for arraignment but her weakened condition would not permit this.

An inquest into the shooting of Duffold, who was alleged about to break off relations with Mrs. Best extending over a period of several years, at the request of his wife, will be held Thursday evening.

Cooper Bond Issue For New High School Carries Handsomely

A large majority of the people of Cooper township thoroughly believe in the advantages of and are firm friends of the public school system, as was demonstrated at the special election held in Cooper Saturday for the authorization of a $20,000 bond issue for the purpose of restoring the recently destroyed Cooper Township High School.

The bond issue went through with a rush in every district except Grass flat precinct, where a misdirected effort resulted in a defeat of the bond issue by three votes. The total vote was 552 for and 182 against the proposition.

The different precincts voted as follows:

PRECINCT	Yes	No
KYLERTOWN PRECINCT	137	25
WINBURNE PRECINCT	254	24
LANSE PRECINCT	70	39
GRASSFLAT PRECINCT	91	94

NATIONAL BANKS IN PENNSYLVANIA WIN BIG COURT BATTLE

Philadelphia, April 9.—The rights of national banks in Pennsylvania to act in the capacity of fiduciary in estates for decedents was permanently and finally established today by the supreme court in an opinion rendered by Justice Fraser today.

TRIAL OF FIEND BEGINS TODAY IN PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, April 9.—The trial of Wylie F. Morgan of Maude, Texas, confessed kidnapper and slayer of little 6-year-old Lillian Gilmore began today before Judge Monaghan.

Extra guards and policemen were placed around the court house to prevent an outbreak against the prisoner, who is charged with one of the most heinous crimes in the annals of Philadelphia.

The defense will be that Morgan is insane. Affidavits have been secured from Texas to the effect that insanity existed in the Morgan family.

ANTI-KLANNERS ARE ACCUSED OF BOMB PLANT AT CHICAGO

Chicago, April 9.—A bomb, police declared, hurled by opponents of the Ku Klux Klan, practically wrecked Albert Kurasch's drug store on 47th street and rocked the adjacent neighborhood today.

The explosion was the third here since Friday, for which enemies of the Klan were blamed. Every showcase in the drug store was shattered. Mrs. Thomas Carey, a widow, and five children, who lived above the place, were hurled from their beds.

Kurasch, owner of the store, denied to Police Lieutenant Rank that he was connected with the Klan but stated an anti-Klan publication recently printed his name as a member.

WENDELL LUCAS IS HELD FOR COURT UNDER $1500 BAIL

Following Finding of the Coroner's Jury Auto Driver Who Killed Boy Is Arrested

TO ANSWER IN MAY

Wendell Lucas, of Dorey street, whose car ran down and killed little Tony Loffredi near the corner of Fifth and Daisy streets shortly before 1 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, was arrested this morning charged with involuntary manslaughter and is held in $1,500 bail for his appearance at May term of court.

Following the fatal accident Saturday afternoon District Attorney Arnold got in touch with County Coroner Dr. J. I. Pollum and the latter drove over from his home in DuBois to investigate the happening.

Arriving here the Coroner impounded a jury consisting of the following citizens: W. I. Curley, C. A. Anderson, John Hunter and W. J. Leavy of Clearfield; William H. Grampian and summoned a number of the eye witnesses to the tragedy to give their testimony as to the accident. Among those who testified were Joseph Harvey, C. E. Gardner, Deason Williams, Jesse Flegal, Louis Barone, and Wendell Lucas.

The testimony all tended to show that Lucas was driving at least 25 miles per hour and in view of the stories told by the witnesses the jury held that the driver of the car was guilty of negligence.

Following is the report of the Coroner's Jury:

County of Clearfield.

Inquisition taken at the Borough of Clearfield, in the said County of Clearfield, the 7th day of April 1923, before J. I. Pollum, Coroner of the County aforesaid, and upon the solemn oaths of W. I. Curley, C. A. Anderson, William Baum, John Hunter, W. J. Leavy and Wilson Rafferty, his good and lawful men of the County aforesaid, charged to inquire when, where and by what means Tony Loffredi came to his death; who, having viewed the body of the said Tony Loffredi and having heard the evidence produced before them, do find and say that he, the said Tony Loffredi, came to his death on Daisy street, at or near the intersection of Fifth and Daisy streets, in the Borough of Clearfield aforesaid, at 12:30 o'clock P. M. of April 7th, 1923 by means of a Jewett Roadster, driven by Wendell L. Lucas, and according to the evidence produced before us do say that Wendell L. Lucas did not use proper precautions at an intersection of streets, therefore be liable to have been negligent and the building trade may be added to this number. Labor unrest presents perhaps the most serious difficulty.

In witness whereof, as well as the said Coroner as the said jurors have to this inquisition set their hands and seals the day and year first above written.

This morning District Attorney Arnold prepared an information charging Wendell Lucas with involuntary manslaughter and he was arrested by Constable Sunderland on a warrant issued by "Squire" Chordening and promptly gave bail in the sum of $1500 for his appearance at May term of court.

EXTENSIVE RESEARCH FOR "HUNGRY HEARTS"

Very few people not connected with the producing of motion pictures realize the immense amount of research work required to make a picture in which scenes are laid in a foreign country. When "Hungry Hearts," which will be seen at the Driggs Theatre for two days, commencing tomorrow, was filmed at the Goldwyn studios, E. Mason Hopper, the director, insisted on absolute correctness, down to the smallest detail, so Irvin Lossman, newspaper writer and social worker who had just returned from Russia, was engaged as a technical adviser. The first scenes of the photoplay are in Russia, while the latter part of the picture is laid in New York.

Mr. Lossman went to Russia to distribute funds raised by several relief organizations. He said he had to travel mostly in cattle cars in going about the country and that he found many people wearing ropes around their feet because they had no shoes. He described the food situation as pitiable.

The story is by Anzia Yezierska, who was herself a Russian immigrant. She spent several months at the Culver City studio collaborating with Julien Josephson on the continuity.

GIRL SCOUT MOVIE BENEFIT

The Girl Scout movie benefit this Friday afternoon and evening promises to have two very fine films for its patrons. "The Golden Eagle" from Scout headquarters in New York draws its story from the life of a girl who becomes a Scout and finds the best in it. The accompanying film, "The Lure of Egypt," is taken from a novel, "There Was a King in Egypt," portraying among other things the opening of one of the ancient tombs—quite to the point in these days of King Tut. There is, of course, a love story as well. Those who attend will kill several birds with the one stone—show their interest in the Scouts, help defray the expenses and see an excellent show. Any surplus receipts will go toward uniforms.

All Girl Scouts who are going to sell tickets for the movie Friday will meet at the Scout home Monday afternoon to get them. All are asked to be advertising the matter and drumming up as much trade as possible in the interval as it will take a big common effort to put it across. Much is at stake.

Dear Sir:—
Being a reader of your local paper I did not miss the account of the robbery the other night and also the heroic efforts of our local sleuth in trying to run down the intruder.
We would like to say for the benefit of our local sleuth that the next time anything like that is staged we would suggest that he before hand call on Colonel Mack Kuhn, the man who never misses, to assist.
And still again we do not know whether the Colonel would have been very much good on the scene as from the way Detective Eppers directed the fire from his trusty automatic the intruder must have been so badly scared

that he was walking along in the air for we are informed that our friend Truman Norris had to leave his bed on the second floor and retreat to the cellar for protection.
Now being strong for public safety I would like to offer a suggestion and that is that we decorate our friend and protector Otto with a medal for bravery and also add to the force the widely known Colonel Mack Kuhn. Then we may sleep in peace.

TO FIGHT FOR WORLD PEACE

International Veterans' Association Asks Assistance From Ex-Servicemen in All Countries

Recommending the establishment of an international court followed by universal disarmament, the International Veterans' Association at its convention in New Orleans has called upon ex-servicemen in all allied countries to take up the fight for world peace. Charles H. Heston, a member of the French Chamber of Deputies, was re-elected president of the organization.

Another prominent delegate was Julian David, a member of the Belgian chamber of deputies. One of the few delegates to be captured by the Germans who escaped and returned to their own country, David was elected to the French Chamber of Deputies.

From the many Rles of the Pension Bureau has come the romantic story of two American women who fought through the revolution, and who in the Revolutionary and Civil wars, fought on the battlefields, were wounded and received pensions from the government. They are the only women in American history to whom pensions were given for actual military service.

The women warriors were Deborah Gannett, of Massachusetts, who fought throughout the revolution, and "Albert" D. J. Cashier, whose real name was Rodgers, but whose Christian name was never revealed, she serving throughout the Civil War.

The records show that Deborah Gannett enlisted in April 1781, in a Massachusetts regiment, commanded by Colonel Henry Jackson, under the name of "Robert Shurtliff," and served until November, 1783. She participated in the Battle of Tarrytown, where she was wounded, and was in the ranks when Lord Cornwallis was captured. Her identity was revealed after the war. And in 1838 Congress passed a special bill for her pension, in which she was described as "Deborah Gannett, a soldier of the Revolution."

The record of the other woman soldier is even more romantic. She enlisted as a private in Company G, Ninety-fifth Illinois Infantry, in August, 1862, and was mustered out in August, 1865. At the time she joined the army she was nineteen years of age, with blue eyes and auburn hair. She gave her occupation as a farmer's residence, Belvidere, Ill.

During the war she was in the engagements leading to the fall of Vicksburg and in the Jackson and East Meridian raids, the Red River expedition, capture of Fort de Russay, and the battle of Old River, Clontier, Mansura and Yellow Bayou. In April, 1864, she was in the thick of the fight at Guntown, Mississippi, and later in the battle of Nashville, and the pursuit of General Hood's army.

After the war she returned to Illinois and worked on a farm, but later became an inmate of the Soldiers' Home at Quincy and was awarded a pension. It was while engaged in farm labor during a brief absence from the home that she was struck by an automobile and her leg fractured. While receiving medical attention her

Miss Olga Appleby, nineteen-year-old daughter of Capt. William Appleby, British representative to the recent International Veterans' association convention in New Orleans, was decorated by France in recognition of her filial devotion to the honor of her father's greatest affliction. She has been his companion since he was blinded at Ypres in 1915. The medal was bestowed in the salon of the steamer Lorraine on the voyage to America. The presentation was made by Charles Heston, president of the International Veterans' association. Miss Appleby is said to be the only woman to receive the medal "Le Merit de L'Union Nationale des Combattants."

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

There is at least one point in Biblical history that we have never been able to get quite clear and having been asked to decide same here with pass it along for some better posted bibliophile. But, let's go—

"Methuselah lived 969 years. He was 187 years old when his son, Lamech, was born. Lamech was 182 years old when his son, Noah, was born and the flood which destroyed all human life on earth except eight came when Noah was 600 years of age. These figures—187, 182 and 600, added together, produce exactly 969, showing that the flood came in the year Methuselah died, and the question rose whether Noah had left his grandfather outside the ark to swim or drown."

Have you ever noticed right here in Clearfield that almost every last auto truck driver in the town fails to observe the necessary precautions in dashing about town. We do not assert this as our own personal opinion but because of the fact that we have had daily complaints against truck drivers and from every section of town, at that.

And in 1838 Congress passed a special bill for her pension, in which she was described as "Deborah Gannett, a soldier of the Revolution."

The record of the other woman soldier is even more romantic. She enlisted as a private in Company G, Ninety-fifth Illinois Infantry, in August, 1862, and was mustered out in August, 1865. At the time she joined the army she was nineteen years of age, with blue eyes and auburn hair. She gave her occupation as a farmer's residence, Belvidere, Ill.

During the war she was in the engagements leading to the fall of Vicksburg and in the Jackson and East Meridian raids, the Red River expedition, capture of Fort de Russay, and the battle of Old River, Clontier, Mansura and Yellow Bayou. In April, 1864, she was in the thick of the fight at Guntown, Mississippi, and later in the battle of Nashville, and the pursuit of General Hood's army.

After the war she returned to Illinois and worked on a farm, but later became an inmate of the Soldiers' Home at Quincy and was awarded a pension. It was while engaged in farm labor during a brief absence from the home that she was struck by an automobile and her leg fractured. While receiving medical attention her

"How much did the players get out of the world's series last year?"

A FAN.
The Giants got about $4,470 each and the Yanks about $3,225 each.

"What is the largest playing field in the major leagues?"

INTERESTED FAN.
The Yankee stadium in New York with a seating capacity of 65,000 accommodates more spectators than any other park but Braves Field in Boston covers the greatest area.

"Doesn't the showing of Mrs. Molla Mallory against Mile. Lengien show that America is due for a new woman's champion this summer?"

TENNIS ENTHUSIAST.
Not necessarily. Mrs. Mallory was playing under heavy handicaps. She had been ill before she sailed and she had no time after her arrival to get acclimated or adjusted to the peculiar light conditions that prevail in the Riviera. No champion can go on for ever and Mrs. Mallory has been on the throne for a long time but her downfall is not assured because she was so badly off form this winter.

Princess Yolanda, eldest daughter of King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena, was married today to Count Carlo di Bergamo, an Italian commoner.

Two ceremonies, a civil one in the Quirinal palace, at which Premier Mussolini acted as clerk, and a religious ceremony in the beautiful Paulina chapel, made available by special dispensation of the Pope, were performed.

The Princess, who is 21 years old, is famed as a horsewoman and for her dark Savoyan beauty.

Her husband is one of the best riders in the army and a captain in the crack Nizza cavalry. He is 14 years older than his bride. Although the princess has lost her claim to royalty, she has gained the enthusiastic applause of the populace, especially the Fascists.

Public Opinion

Public opinion is often wrong in the beginning; it is always right in the end. And the reason is that, at first, it is formed by the passions of the unthinking many, ignorant of mankind, but interested in passing events; at last, on the reason of the thinking few, whose judgment had been enlightened by experience, to whom alone the past is an object of interest, and by whom the verdict of posterity is foretold.

Emerson Set Example.

Emerson was the first man in this country, or in any other, so far as I know, who made a religion of walking—the first to announce a Gospel of the Wild.—John Burroughs.

Either there is a Republican party which stands for certain definite principles, policies and traditions, or there isn't. Either there is a government by political parties, or it isn't. The time has come for the restoration of majority rule in political parties and in the nation. This means the abolition of the filibuster in the Senate and the restoration of the party caucus in both branches of Congress. No political party can meet responsibilities without assuming authority, and there can be neither party responsibility nor authority when minorities insist upon controlling majorities by threats of disloyalty unless the minority is permitted to control the organization and the program of the party. No man who has sought election to Congress at the hands of a political party by the process of majority decision, should be permitted to enter a party caucus except on agreement to abide by majority decisions as to organization. On matters of principle no majority can bind the conscience of the individual legislator, if the question involved be one of conscience rather than of mere policy. But where an individual member of Congress wishes to bolt the decision of the majority he should do so publicly and on his own responsibility and throw the matter out with his own constituents. Party irregularities have in recent years been presuming too much on the party loyalty of men who belong to parties from conviction rather than as factionalists or from a desire to use political parties for the promotion of personal fads or as mere means of obtaining personal power. There must be some give and take in these matters, or political parties will be unable to withstand the effects of minority usage. Majority government and representative government must be restored in political parties and in the country or there is likely to be no party and perhaps no country left within the next few years.

BEST INFORMED LEGION MAN

Columbia (S. C.) Committeeman Up on All Hospitalization and Rehabilitation Questions.

"The best informed American Legion member in this country on all questions dealing with hospitalization and rehabilitation," is the way Alvin Owsley, Legion committee member, describes Joe Sparks of Columbia, S. C., a newly-appointed chairman of the region's national rehabilitation committee.

The ability of Mr. Sparks to co-operate with the United States Veterans' bureau was also noted by Mr. Owsley as one of his strongest recommendations. Mr. Sparks' work as Legion liaison representative at the headquarters of the Fifth United States Veterans' bureau district has drawn national attention to such an extent that Legion headquarters has received a flood of telegrams from the North and West urging his appointment since the Legion convention.

During Mr. Sparks' term the Fifth district was rated more than 92 per cent efficient, the highest of all 14 districts. Out of a total of 2,600 patients in ex-service hospitals, 2,100 veterans have been rated total temporary disability and 400 claims are being adjudicated.

Although Mr. Sparks was well over the "drift" age, he served as a "buck private" in the Fifty-seventh and Third Divisions during the World war. Mr. Sparks was born in Laurens county, S. C., thirty-seven years ago. Later he went to Columbia, where he got a job as a newspaper reporter. He was a member of the Columbia State, one of the most influential newspapers in the South, when he enlisted.

Returning from the army, Mr. Sparks became connected with a large New York life insurance company. His work with the Legion has been in Atlanta and in New York.

NEED OF PHYSICAL EXERCISE

Director of Legion's Americanization Commission Cites Reasons Why Many Were Disqualified.

Most of the physical defects which disqualified almost a quarter of the men enrolled in the army draft could have been prevented by adequate physical education programs, according to Garland W. Powell, director of the American Legion's Americanization commission.

A prominent medical authority makes the following statements on the subject of draft disqualification, according to Mr. Powell:

"1. Heart disease could be prevented by proper strengthening of the heart through physical activities, removal of physical defects such as bad tonsils and infected teeth. 2. Malformation of the limbs may be prevented to some extent by proper physical activities. 3. Defective vision oftentimes could be prevented by exercise. 4. Underweight would not exist in many cases if there were physical activity and proper instruction in regard to nutrition, preparation of food and the like. 5. Hernia undoubtedly in the majority of cases would be prevented by the development of abdominal muscles. 6. Instruction in care of the feet and selection of shoes will prevent a large proportion of flat feet."

A DAY TO CELEBRATE

Washington, April 9.—"The recognition on December 2nd, 1922, of the American people to the great principle enunciated by James Monroe one hundred years before will be a most salutary ceremonial," declares the Republican Publicity Association, through its President, Hon. Jonathan Borne, Jr. "Along about the first of February Senator Calder of New York, introduced a resolution for the participation of the United States in the observance of the one hundredth anniversary of the enunciation of the Monroe Doctrine," which passed the Senate February 24th and was taken up by Representative Bland of Indiana, Chairman of the Committee on Industrial Arts and Expositions. It got as far as the Union Calendar, but became a victim of legislative congestion. On January 24th a bill was approved for the coinage of 50-cent pieces commemorative of the Monroe Doctrine. That was about as far as Congress proceeded in the matter, and since it does not meet again until the day after the centenary of the doctrine, it is up to the citizens of the country to take unofficial but no less effective action.

That they have such a notion in mind is indicated by the recent selection of George Henry Payne, proprietor of "The Forum", New York, as temporary chairman of the Monroe Doctrine Centenary Committee which is arranging to celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of Monroe's courageous announcement to the world of the attitude of the United States toward attempts to extend European imperialism to the Western Hemisphere. Payne is a live one and may be depended upon to make December 2 a memorable occasion.

"Mr. Wilson and his international friends did the same thing to scrap the Monroe Doctrine and substitute the league of nations therefore. There are many indications that they are planning to do it again. If they win to power, for that reason, if for no other, the celebration this year should be so general and so vigorous as to impress upon the minds of the internationalists for years to come the fact that the American people prefer to stay clear of European politics."

"In this connection it is well to recall Jefferson's reply to Monroe when the latter sought his advice on the policy proposed by Carnarvon, the British premier, which gave impetus to the Monroe Doctrine. Carnarvon desired to sign up in a joint understanding, respecting the Latin American, and Jefferson replied to Monroe: "Our first and fundamental maxim should be never to entangle ourselves in the politics of Europe; our second, never to suffer Europe to intermeddle with cis-Atlantic affairs. Jefferson rather favored the Canning proposal as one which might effect a division in the body of European powers," but Adams, then Secretary of State, saw the advisability of our acting independently of England, hence the Monroe Doctrine became an essentially American pronouncement. The Wilsonians were intent on discarding not only the doctrine but the view of the great Democratic exemplar as well, and they still adhere to that intention.

"When the Great Britain-Venezuela boundary dispute was on in 1895, Grover Cleveland, then President, addressed Congress December 17th, saying: 'It will in my opinion be the duty of the United States to resist by every means in its power, as a wilful aggression upon its rights and interests, the appropriation by Great Britain of any part of the exercise of government jurisdiction over any territory, which after investigation we have determined of right belong to Venezuela.' The controversy was amicably settled, but imagine what the result would have been had it been submitted to the league of nations, with Europe avid to expand in South America."

TITLE BILL WILL LESSEN AUTO THEFTS

Harrisburg, April 8.—Passage of the bill now before the Legislature providing for the titling of motor vehicles not only will decrease automobile thefts in Pennsylvania but will end the license congestion at the close of the year and eventually result in money saving to automobile owners because of lessening notarial fees, according to Benjamin G. Eynon, state registrar of motor vehicles.

The bill proposes a law requiring the registration at Harrisburg of titles, similar to real estate titles, by owners of all Pennsylvania registered motor vehicles, and provides for transfer title, protection of all persons at interest and elimination of vendor and vendee affidavits.

Title laws are now in force in Maryland, Delaware, Indiana, Michigan, Missouri, Kentucky, North Carolina and Ohio and similar bills are pending in New York and Wisconsin legislatures. In states where the law is in effect automobile thefts have decreased 40 to 50 per cent, according to Register Eynon, who believes thefts can be wiped out entirely by the enactment of uniform title laws in all states.

If the proposed Pennsylvania act becomes a law a great convenience of service will be rendered vehicle owners because, from records on file in the highway department, it is proposed each year to forward to all owners an application with correct data relative to the vehicle he owns, and with his signature and the necessary fee this will be the only document required to secure a renewal of his license.

The advantage of thus securing an application correct in every particular will be appreciated by at least 135,000 owners whose applications were returned to them in 1922 for correction. Departmental mailing of applications will lessen the huge license rush the latter part of the year.

SURPRISE PARTY

ROBBERS VISIT CURWENSVILLE STORE

The store of Kantar & Sons at Curwensville was broken into and robbed some time Saturday or Sunday night last and a considerable quantity of men's and women's suits, clothing and furnishings taken.

The robbery was discovered when the store was opened for business this morning. The thieves gained entrance by jimmying the rear window.

Chief of Police Clark is working on the case and following a clue which he expects will land the burglars before many days.

BANKER IS MANAGER OF COTTON GROWERS

Allen Northington to Direct the Alabama Farm Bureau Association.

"We are tired of spellbinders and hope, the man who is to direct our organization must have made a success of his own affairs and the affairs he has handled for others. He must be a two-headed, bull-necked hog-slayer." So said the Alabama growers of cotton when they formed the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association.

Their next step was to reach over the First National Bank of Pratt.

Allen Northington, General Manager of Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association.

Mr. Northington has been general manager of the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association since it was organized, July 1, 1922. He has secured an interest rate of five and six per centum for $4,000,000 in 18 months the organization and make advances to its farm members, and has an unexpended credit account of $1,000,000 with the War Finance Corporation, and $3,000,000 with other financial institutions.

First the farmers were advanced 12 cents a pound on their cotton, then 3 cents more, and now preparations are being made for an additional 3 cents, making the total to 20 cents a pound. This will be represented in some cases $5,000,000, and more advances are to be made.

The association has sold more than 15,000 bales of cotton so far and the average price is above 25 cents a pound.

ARM BUREAU 1923 PROGRAM

A Long Outstanding Objects is Plan for Meeting Each Month in Every Township.

The Crawford County, Iowa, farm bureau at its annual meeting held recently in Atlanta adopted a most progressive agricultural program for the year 1923. Some of the outstanding projects are: A meeting each month in each township in the county; county marketing committee; co-operation with the wool producers, purchase of a poultry show, etc. Graduation of its members in the county with a special committee handling the work; day camps; poultry culling, tax cutting; promotion of boys' and girls' work; development of projects of interest to women; supply the county with farm news from every township, with a correspondent in each of these towns.

I suppose the above many other minor projects have been adopted and will be carried out by the officers and the directors.

But There Are Others. Very much more interest the earth has, I suppose, other tenants.—Wall Street Journal.

ANNUAL BUSINESS OF MARKET ASSOCIATION

Amount Placed at $58,500,000 by Secretary of New York Farm Bureau Federation.

An annual business of $58,500,000 was done by the co-operative marketing associations of New York State last year, according to figures received at the office of E. V. Underwood, secretary of the New York State Farm Bureau Federation. This amount does not include the co-operative purchasing done by the Grange League Federation Exchange, Syracuse, N. Y.

Three co-operatives of the state exceeded a total annual business of two million dollars. They were the Dairyman's League Co-operative Association, Utica, N. Y., the Eastern States Milk Producers, Syracuse, N. Y., and the Western New York Fruit Growers Co-operative Packing Association, Inc., Rochester, N. Y., showing respectively an annual business of $48,700,000; $5,000,000; and $2,500,000.

Forty per cent of the farmers of New York State are members of co-operative associations, of which there are twelve in the state of state-wide scope. They market milk and dairy products, potatoes and cabbage, seed potatoes, wool, maple syrup, fruits, and cattle. Over 100,000 individual farmers sell their products collectively through the co-operative associations.

SUCCESSFUL HEALTH CAMPAIGN BY BUREAU

Much Good Accomplished in Increasing Amount of Milk Consumed by Children.

Greene County, Iowa, has attracted considerable attention with a successful health campaign recently put on through the co-operation of the extension service, Ames, and the local farm bureau organization.

County Agent, C. W. Davis, in speaking of the work, says: "We are receiving many encouraging reports since the campaign of the good which it has done in increasing the consumption of milk on the part of school children. It has also done a great deal of good in bringing the matter of care of milk to the attention of people, especially in regard to testing of cows which are producing the milk. This is one of the most important results of such a campaign, for after all the protection of the children against the use of infected milk is of greatest importance."

"A summary of the work shows that workers traveled 715 miles, that 78 talks were given and that 2,550 people were reached. The number of pieces of literature distributed is 6,000. Plays were put on in several communities and others are planning on putting on such plays sometime during the winter months."

ILLINOIS WOOL POOL SAVES

Farmers Have Expressed Their Satisfaction With Prices Received for 1921 Crop.

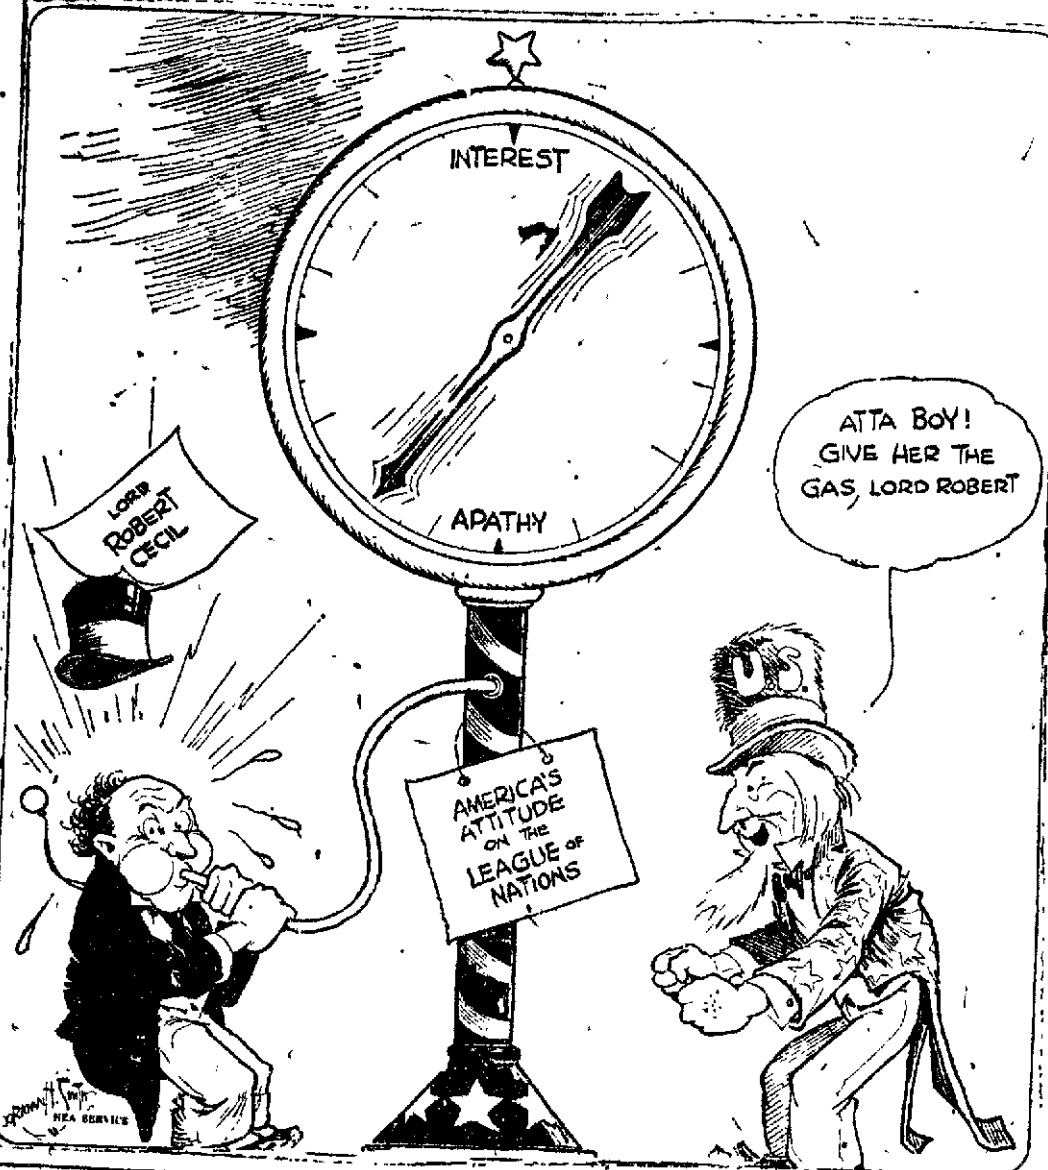

The results of the 1921 Illinois wool pool show that $14,000 net has been added to its members. Farmers have expressed their satisfaction with the prices received. Seventy-seven counties took part in forming the collection. The prices obtained, for 47,915 pounds returned an average of 45 cents a pound; 14,336 pounds of three-eighths staple, an average of 46 cents; 22,104 pounds of one-fourth clothing, average 35½ cents; 14,719 of low one-quarter returned an average of 34 cents.

Other grades in varying amounts average prices as follows: One-half blood, 52 cents; one-half blood clothing, 40 cents; three-eighths blood clothing, 41 cents; braid, 30 cents; medium burry, 34½ cents; fine burry, 38 cents; medium black, 14½ cents; dead, 20½ cents.

Farmers are beginning to learn through the wool pool what grades of wool are in most demand, and thus are concentrating on producing the wool that brings the best return.

Barytes Deposits Found. Important deposits of barytes of an unusually purity are being developed in South Australia.

IT'S AN INTERESTING EXPERIMENT, ANYWAY!

MELLON WOULD CUT THE SURTAX RATE ON INCOME VERY SOON

Washington, April 8.—Possible efforts by the treasury to have Congress cut the surtax rate on incomes were forecast today by Secretary Mellon, who asserted that March collections of income and profit taxes aggregating $468,000,000 had fully justified his prediction that downward revision would have the effect of actual increasing instead of decreasing the federal revenue.

He declared that although higher rates were in effect in March, 1922, the collections at that time were $70,000,000 less than in the same month this year, a circumstance which he regarded as proof that the downward

revision had acted as a stimulus to business.

mailing idea out of your head. Look here: stay and have lunch with me, and we'll discuss the matter over a cigar and a glass of wine."
"I should be taking your lunch
under false pretenses," I replied, rising and buttoning my coat. "You shall have the four days' grace which I have promised."
He followed me to the door, anticipating me for my address. So convinced was he that I would change my mind, that he sent his secretary out into the street after me. In the end I made my escape by promising to see him again on the evening of the third day.

I TOOK my usual leisurely lunch and afterward made my way to the unassuming neighborhood of Streatham. "The Towers," which I had discovered from a book of reference to be Mr. Edward Rendall's address, was a hopelessly vulgar address of gray stone, approached by what is generally described as a short carriage drive. The popular M. P., as was his boast, was not in the least difficult of access. He came into the room within a few minutes,
a pipe in his mouth, and giving evidence of all the easy good-nature which befitted his position.

"Don't know who you are, Mr.
Buckcross," he said, nothing with some surprise that I had not availed myself of the opportunity of shaking hands with him, "but sit down, and welcome. What can I do for you?"
"I have brought you bad news, Mr.
Rendall," I announced.

"The devil you have," he answered, removing his pipe from his teeth and staring at me. "Who are you, anyway? I don't seem to recognize your name."
"That really doesn't matter," I replied. "You can call me a journalist, if you like. It's as near the truth as anything about myself that I'm likely to tell you. Something very disagreeable is going to happen to you on the fourth day from now, and as a party responsible for it, I have come out here to give you a general warning."

"You're getting at me," he pretended to say.
"Not in the least," I assured him.
"The fact is, I believe, that you are a blackmailer, and I have in my possession a copy of the speech which you ought to have made at Liverpool last March and didn't, and also the original letter from Lord Kinderley, offering you $5,000 pounds to hold it up. I also know that you received that money on the following evening at the National Liberal Club, and I know what thanks you intrusted it to."

RENDALL was, I believe, at heart, just as much of a coward
as Kinderley, but he showed it in a different fashion.
"You lying blackmailer!" he shouted. "How dare you come here with such a story! Get out of the house, or I'll throw you down the steps."
"I have fulfilled my mission," I told him. "I shall be very glad to be allowed to go."

"Stop!" he shouted as I turned toward the door. "How did you come by this cock-and-bull story?"
"How should I have come by it? I answered. "The whole world would know the facts soon enough. I obtained the papers from your wife."
"That's a lie, then," he declared trumpantly. "For I saw her destroy the letter."

I smiled. The man, after all, was a poor sport.
"She deceived you," I replied.
"You saw her destroy a circular. She kept the letter. Perhaps she had her reasons. I bought it from her and another man at Frasconi's restaurant last night."

Conviction seized upon Mr. Edward Rendall. His eyes narrowed a little.
"How do I know that the whole thing isn't a bluff?" he said suspiciously. "Have you got the documents with you?"
"I have," I told him.

He attempted nothing in the way of subtlety. He relied, I suppose, upon his size and his heavy shoulders. He came at me like a bull, head down and set swinging. It was a very ridiculous encounter.

How about the Middleman?

(National Crop Improvement Service)
THE average grocery store in the United States changes hands or goes out of business every seven years.
"Of the men who enter the grocery business, 5 per cent are successful, 15 per cent stagger along on the ragged edge, and 80 per cent go out of business in that time," says Mr. Kamper, President National Retail Grocers' association.

Thoughtful men in all lines of business are trying to arrive at some conclusion regarding the middlemans, of whom the retail grocer is typical. It is easy to go into the grocery business. In spite of its familiarity, new stores spring up to take the place of those which have failed.

"It is frequently claimed that there are too many retail stores in each neighborhood," says Dennis
A. Merriman, American Steel & Wire company, "but here is the problem; do you think you could buy cheaper in the neighborhood where there is only one store, or do you think that you would fare

better where there are several stores in keen competition? Perhaps theoretically, the more stores
the more overhead, and the greater the price to the consumer, and the less to the producer, but is this strictly true?"

Suppose we eliminate our middlemans, admitting for sake of argument that they are superfluous.
Shall we send them back into competition with the farmers and other producers, or what shall we do with them? We cannot drown them. Another thing, all of these middlemans are also consumers in all lines of goods.

Co-operative stores are frequently urged as a remedy, but on the other hand statisticians show that they have not successfully competed with privately-owned stores in economic distribution. And seldom being managed by experienced men, who have individual profit at stake, they have not as yet flourished in our cities.

Does not the middleman depend entirely upon service rendered for which people are willing to pay? What is your remedy?

ISAAC M. STAGE, RETIRED BUSINESS MAN, DIED SUNDAY

Isaac M. Stage, one of Clearfield's best known citizens and retired business men, passed away at his home on West Fourth avenue at 6:30 p. m. on Sunday, April 8, 1923, as the result of a paralytic stroke, following a general decline in health extending over a period of several years, in the 72d year of his age.

Isaac M. Stage was the son of John and Catherine Ehrgood Stage and was born on Chestnut Ridge, Pike township, this county, on May 1st, 1851. He was married in October, 1872, to Margaret Norris and went to housekeeping on the Mitchell Stone House farm in Lawrence township and since that time has lived in this vicinity. To this union were born fourteen children, five of whom died in infancy.

Mr. Stage engaged in farming in his early manhood, later embarking in the butchering business and for many years conducted a meat market in Clearfield. Being careful and conservative and a keen business man, he invested his savings to advantage in real estate adjoining the town, which included the fine farm at Montgomery and his holdings immediately adjacent to the borough line surrounding his West Fourth avenue residence.

This property was underlaid with several seams of coal and for the past twenty-five years Mr. Stage was the leading local coal dealer. He was public-spirited and possessed the real spirit of town pride and his generous contribution made possible the paving of the upper portion of West Market street.

At the organization of the Farmers' Bank in Clearfield Mr. Stage was honored with the presidency of that institution and continued in that capacity until failing health forced him to retire from active business, since which time his coal and other business has been carried on by his sons, Clyde and Edgar. During the past year he failed quite rapidly in health and a few days ago suffered a stroke which paralyzed his right side, and from that time on the decline was rapid until the end came, as stated above.

Of a quiet, retiring disposition,
Isaac Stage possessed those attributes of sterling, rugged honesty and square dealing which marked the business man of the old school. He was the soul of honor, whose word was his bond and who, passing away in the fullness of his years, leaves to his family the priceless heritage of a good name.

While deeply engrossed in the affairs of an active business life, Isaac Stage always found time to do the Master's work and was an earnest and most devoted member of the West Side Methodist church since first coming to this community. He attended carefully to his church duties and so lived that his life was an inspiration to those who sought to model their lives along right lines. Isaac Stage was a good citizen in the fullest sense of the term and his passing away is a real loss to this community and will be sincerely mourned by a wide circle of friends throughout this section of Clearfield county.

He is survived by his widow and the following children:—Mrs. Lois Heer, of Montrose, Colorado; Frank,
of Youngstown, O.; Kay, of Chicago, Ill.; Clyde, of Clearfield; Mrs. Bert
Hoffman, of Reynoldsville; Mrs. Roy
I. Fulton, Edgar L. Bertha, of Clearfield, and Mrs. Earl Sunderland, of Philadelphia. Twelve grandchildren, one sister and two brothers also survive.

The funeral will be held from his late home Wednesday afternoon at 2
p. m. Interment will be made in Oak Hill cemetery at Curwensville.

PROHIB. AGENTS DID A BIG BUSINESS IN THE YEAR OF 1922

Washington, April 9.—Property valued at $9,097,477 was seized during 1922 in the enforcement of probi-tation, and of this amount $2,000,000 worth was destroyed.

A yearly summary made public today at prohibition headquarters showed that during the year prohibition agents seized 421,838 gallons of spirits and 4,188,875 gallons of malt liquor, of which 180,700 gallons of spirits and 3,782,173 gallons of malt liquors were destroyed. Fourteen prohibition agents were killed on duty during the year and 49 injured.

At the number of 60,019, and automobiles seized 3,573, valued at $1, 709,000.

The number of illicit distilleries seized was 10,351 and the number of stills 12,143. There were taken 119 boats and launches valued at $600,000.

The statistics showed a considerable increase in the results of probi-tation enforcement during the last six months as compared with the first half of 1922 due, officials said, to greater vigilance together with increased co-operation of state and other authorities.

Surprising.
At the celebration of the Barba-denian in Boston in 1866 Emerson conspired his audience, according to Lamb, who was present, by presenting to his audience "The Memory of Barbaden," an afraid heaven and earth have taken too good care of it to leave us anything to say.

Curwensville's
Own Column

I have been stated that Rev. B. H. Conly, who has been pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Curwensville since the pastorate of Rev. Samuel Barber, has resigned from his charge and will go into a new field of labor for the uplifting of the gospel. Mr. Conly has been in Curwensville for his removal from Curwensville as yet, and it might not be for some months to come. Rev. Conly has done excellent church work since his advent in the community and has almost doubled the membership of his church. While his hundreds of friends are sorry that he is departing from the community, all wish him success and God speed in what ever new field he may choose for his future work.

Miss Helen Kephart, a student at Indiana Normal, who spent her Easter vacation in Philadelphia with friends, came to Curwensville Saturday and spent Sunday with her parents on South Side before her return to her studies.

The funeral procession of the late Mrs. J. W. Abel left Curwensville Sunday forenoon for Beechwoods cemetery, making the trip in automobiles. Saturday evening at 7:30 services over the deceased were held at the home on State street. A large number of ladies, members of her Bible class of the Methodist church, attended the last rites in a body. Rev. Collins delivering the scriptural address.

The following note was handed the writer with a request to have the same printed in the Curwensville column: "J. W. Niles, who has been located at Marion Centre for the past 10 years as a freight agent of the B. & P. railroad, has been promoted to be station agent at Indian. He is a world war veteran and has been treated of fair by the railroad company ever since his term of employment. He is another one of Curwensville's boys who took advantage of every opportunity that presented itself and has made good. His many acquaintances and close friends rejoice at his advancement."

Miss May Mallon who spent some time in Curwensville with kin folks, left last part of last week for Pittsburgh, where, after spending a week she will proceed to Washington, D. C. to once again resume her duties.

Joseph Dale, after a confinement to the house by illness for a month, was able to be out on the street Saturday.

Several young ladies of town lay claim to the fact that one evening last week while they were on their way home saw a Ku Klux cross being burned on the hillside south of the upper creek bridge. The writer is unable to discover anyone else who witnessed the fire, hence has concluded they saw a mirage.

Chester B. Deering, youngest son of Beulah Deering, South Side, was married on Wednesday, April 4th, to Miss Leona Knapp, of Royville, Pa., the ceremony being performed at Endicott, N. Y., by Rev. Paul Douglas, pastor of the M. E. church of that city. The groom is employed in the tannery at Endicott, where the young couple will make their home.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Tibbels, at 15-pound son. Mother and baby are doing fine.

The use of the X as signature of persons unable to write began when signs and articles were it whether able to write or not, as a symbol that they signed themselves by the Christian with a truth of the matter to which they attested it.

TRINITY METHODIST CHURCH

Began a good day yesterday with an interested Bible school that had a record attendance. Class work was exceptionally strong.

The morning sermon from Phillips 3:10, "That I may know the power of the resurrection both of the dead and of ourselves," set forth Christ's resurrection both real and realized, with the stress on experience and the value of the subjective in religious reality. At night Enoch was the heretic described. In the analysis of his departure from the habit of the crowd by yearning after the spiritual, the preacher showed the need of making spiritual things supreme, for this age is noted in part for its unblinking worship of mammon, coupled with lawlessness by the godless rich and the smart set, who imagine their social position and wealth protect them against reproach and exposure; for its wearisome seeking after pleasure, which upon drops into dissipation, vice and immorality. One person was admitted to membership.

The music at each service was varied in subject and sentiment. Most of the chief participants were new voices. The congregations listened eagerly.

This week's events: Wednesday mid-week congregational meeting followed by Sunday school board session. Thursday, Woman's Foreign Missionary meeting, 7:30 p. m., with supper for members and their guests. Friday, 8:30 p. m. Coinonia Club dinner; special program. Lantern slides on the clay industry, with explanation by Mr. Bussard, from Philadelphia, and address by Lynn Adams, chief of the state police.

Import Half a Million Birds.
About 500,000 live birds are imported to the United States every year, including about 1,500 species, of which canaries, parrots and game birds are the most numerous. No birds can be imported without a permit from the department of agriculture, which issues about 600 a year.

PLEASANT BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

The comfortable home of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Blyler was the scene of a happy gathering Saturday evening when about two score of the friends of Mr. Blyler gathered to give him a birthday surprise. The arrangements were in the capable hands of Mrs. Blyler and a neighbor or two, and they succeeded in making the surprise complete. There were thirty-eight persons present and a highly enjoyable time was had. Delicious refreshments were served.

The out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Barr and Mr. and Mrs. Dugan of Winbarne.

JACK HOXIE

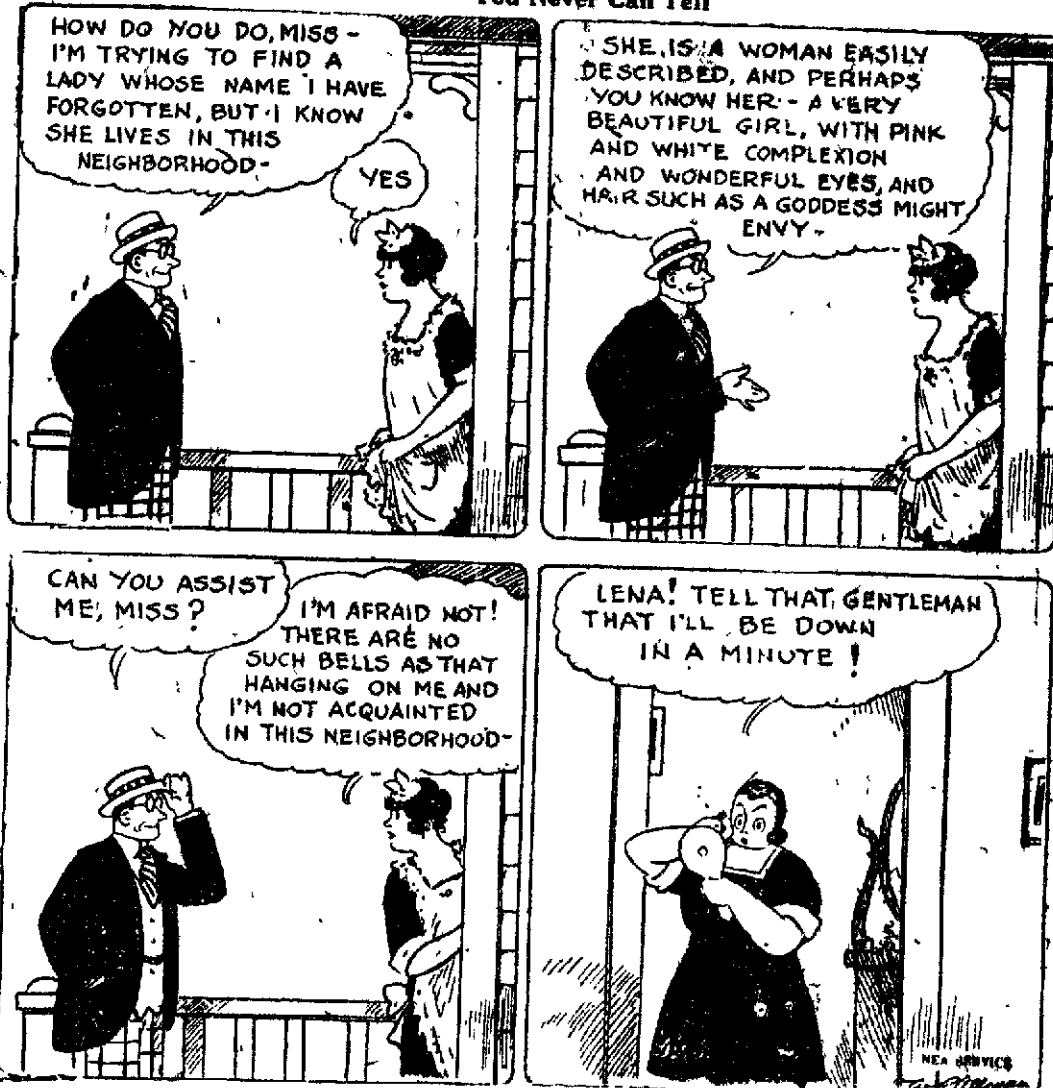

"Two Fisted Jefferson"

Jack looks as manly and as handsome as ever and is bound in this picture to increase his popularity amongst the movie fans in general and the ladies in particular; for Jack is a good looking, and his face, it may be said, is largely his fortune. He is probably the best looking cowboy star that has ever played in pictures. It does not matter what Jack has to do; however rough his work; however exciting; he always looks good and you cannot say this of every heroic impersonator of Western roles.

Small Birds Form Great Colony.

Extraordinary methods are adopted by the little society birds of South Africa in building their nests.

The birds are no bigger than a canary, and each pair builds a mud nest of diminutive size. But thousands of them nest in the same tree, and each year a new nest is built, until the branches are covered. Eventually the weight of the nest becomes too great for the tree, and the colony falls, or all available space is occupied and a new colony is started on a tree that is situated nearby.

Fort Hamilton Famous.

When British troops forced a landing the first shots by an outpost of Colonial troops were fired from the spot which later became Fort Hamilton. Then it was known as Denyse's Ferry. After the disastrous battle of Long Island in 1776, a fort was built. Efforts to find the cornerstone laid in 1825 were not successful. "Stonewall" Jackson was baptized at the little church, now St. John's, and one of the historic landmarks in the city, when he was stationed at the fort in 1849. Capt. Robert E. Lee, later the noted Confederate army general, was for years in command of the post and was a vestryman of the church. The batteries have been manned for the last half century by officers who have won fame in a hundred fields in defense of their country.

Another Lamb Anecdote.

The following story, which appears in an old volume of "Leigh Hunt's Journal," throws an interesting light on Charles Lamb's beautiful relations with his stricken sister, Mary: "L. and his sister were one evening supping at Mrs. M—'s. L. (with another person) had made his way to the bottom of the second bottle of port. 'You really shall not have any more Charles,' said his sister. 'Pray, Mrs. M—, don't give him any more.' 'You hear what your sister says, Mr. Lamb?' observed Mrs. M—, pouring out the remains of the port (which was thick) into his glass. 'She is a person of mean capacity,' said he. 'I never listen to her. Try the next bottle, madame; for this is thick, and—how pitifully should run due to the last.'

Eliminate the Crude.

There are not many houses that do not shelter at least one hideous piece of furniture. This may be a chair with intricate legs or with absurdly carved arms, or a table, or it may be an old-fashioned sideboard with all sorts of meaningless gnomon ornaments. Even good lines in furniture cannot make golden oak beautiful, and yet much of this is still found in houses in which an effort to achieve beauty is made. Often it is by cleaning away the most strikingly ugly pieces that harmony is achieved. The idea that only by adding to the objects in the house can one add to the beauty of the interior is far from correct.

Pictures and Frames.

Those old picture frames that go begging around the attic or cellar may be made into some of the delightful new models with little trouble and less expense. Old white enamel or oak frames may be treated as follows: With a bit of glass carefully scrape off all the enamel or polish. Sandpaper to a smooth finish with a fine grade sandpaper and later with a finer grade. For a soft brown print the frame will be just right at this stage. Some of the newest picture frames that are finding place in the best shops show no stain or color of any kind. Artists claim that the decorative frame detracts from the beauty of the picture within.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

When Mixed With Sulphur It Brings Back Its Beautiful Lustre At Once

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold. Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application of two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous and you appear years younger.

Monkey in a Muff.

A monkey was used by a clever woman thief to commit a series of thefts from jewelers' shops in Paris. The creature was so tiny that she carried it in a big muff. Then while its mistress was standing at such distance from the counter as disarmed suspicion, the monkey would thrust out a long, spider-like arm and snatch and conceal a ring or brooch. It was a shop detective, hidden in a gallery above and watching with the aid of reflecting mirrors, who at last detected the trick.

Emulation. Great men, taken up in any way, are profitable company. We cannot look, however imperfectly, upon a great man, without gaining something by him. No nobler feeling than this of admiration for one higher than himself dwells in the breast of man. —Carlyle.
